Murder Charged To Lt. Epes

Police Grill Woman As Army Turns Suspect Over to Civilian Branch

By JANE NOLAND,
United Press Staff Correspondent

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 15—While police here delved into the "other woman" angle of the case involving the death of Mrs. Mary Lee Epes, Sheriff T. Alex Heise, of Richland county, lodged a formal charge of murder against her husband, Lt. Sam. C. Epes, an officer attached to the post hospital at Fort Jackson near here. Heise said tonight that Epes admitted to him that he watched his wife take an overdose of a sedative.

"So far as I am concerned," said the sheriff, "that constitutes murder."

Police officers say that the "other woman" lived at Lake Charles, La., Epes' station before his transfer to Fort Jackson. She is said to have followed Epes here.

"BODY RATTLED"

In a statement which Sheriff Heise says that Epes signed, the lieutenant, member of a prominent family in Richmond, Va., admitted that he buried his wife's body in a foxhole just outside the Army reservation at Fort Jackson. Epes himself, the sheriff revealed, led the authorities to the grave late yesterday. Mrs. Epes had been missing for 16 days.

Sheriff Heise also said that Epes told him that "the bruises on Mary Lee's body were caused by her rattling around in the trunk of his car" while he was taking the body from his home, on Sims avenue, Columbia, to bury it in the foxhole.

An autopsy late last night revealed that Mrs. Epes "probably" came to her death as the result of a severe blow on the head. The medical examination showed, also, that she was drugged before death.

IN STATE PEN

Epes was transferred under guard from the Fort Jackson Army hospital to the hospital at the state penitentiary here. He was in a weakened condition due to loss of blood suffered when he slashed his wrists and throat with a razor last Monday in a suicide attempt.

Authorities believed remorse brought on by the death of his wife caused the officer, a graduate of the University of Richmond, where he had been a student leader, to try to end his life.

Earlier, Lt. Epes denied killing his wife and attributed her death to an overdose of sodium seconal (a sedative) which he said had been given to her by an Army medical officer.

On the night of Jan. 27, he said, "Mary Lee took a couple of the capsules and later in the evening she took about 10 more. When I found her, her pulse had stopped . . . I was panic stricken."

KEPT BODY A DAY?

Officers believed the body remained in the couple's apartment for a day or two before Epes stuffed it in the trunk of his car, drove to the Fort Jackson maneuver area, and buried it.

In another of his statements, however, Epes reportedly confessed killing his wife but in a manner not revealed.

Sheriff Heise said investigators had found that Epes had gone to considerable pains, after his wife died, to build up a story that she disappeared while shopping on Monday, Jan. 29.

On that day, Heise said, Epes had "planted" his wife's pocketbook near a downtown store in order to mislead police.

Epes told police the purse contained $22, "but what is most important I want the purse back to prove I wasn't lying." Epes has offered $100 reward for return of the purse. Sheriff Heise said he would "give another $50 to find the pocketbook."

The officer, according to Heise, also had prepared some food and

Berry Murder By Parolee Stirs Jurors

By KEELER McCARTNEY
Constitution Staff Writer

COVINGTON, Ga., Feb. 15.—Sharply criticizing the State Prison and Parole Board for releasing convicts without consulting officials of counties from which they were sentenced, the Newton county grand jury today charged that the convicted murderer of Mrs. James E. Berry, farm wife, had been released on parole before he finished the minimum of a one-to-five-year burglary sentence.

Describing the Berry slaying as "one of the most heinous crimes ever to have been perpetrated in this county," the jury pointed out that Y. C. Johnson, Negro, who was sentenced to the electric chair for the crime yesterday, had been sentenced to serve one-to-five years for burglary and six months for larceny in 1943.

"We were amazed to learn that he was paroled before he had served the minimum sentence and that had he been required to serve the sentence imposed he would not have been at liberty at the time he committed this awful crime," the presentments stated.

Mrs. Berry was killed Feb. 4 in her home four miles from Covington. Newton county sheriff, W. G. Benton, arrested Johnson the same day and he was indicted last Monday. Superior Court Judge James C. Davis yesterday sentenced him to die in the electric chair on March 9.

The Newton county presentments followed a strong criticism of the Pardon and Parole Board by the DeKalb county grand jury last week. DeKalb jurors charged that 44 convicts from that county had been released without consulting any county official.

"When we discovered this condition we investigated the biennial report of the state board that is furnished to the members of the general assembly and the governor and from our investigation of that report we find that there have been released in Georgia over a period of 16 months 1,828 convicted criminals," the present-

Non-Stop Air Attacks Rip Rails

1,550 Craft Assault Point 12 Miles In Front of Russian Army

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—More than 1,100 American heavy bombers escorted by 450 fighters, carrying the greatest non-stop air attack of the war into its second day, threw their main weight of destruction today against clogged rail yards at Cottbus, only 12 miles in front of the onsweeping Russian army.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(UP)—The aerial offensive against Germany: Tuesday night—1,400 RAF planes hit Dresden. Wednesday—2,250 U. S. planes hit Dresden, Chemnitz, other targets; tactical planes make some 4,000 sorties; 500 Italy-based bombers hit Vienna, other targets. Wednesday night—1,300 RAF planes hit Chemnitz, Rositz, Berlin and other targets. Thursday—1,550 U. S. planes raid Cottbus, Dresden, Magdeburg; Italy-based bombers hit Vienna; tactical sorties held by bad weather to little more than 100.

Burning Dresden also was hit again.

Nearly 500 bombers hurled some 1,500 tons of explosives on Cottbus, aiming at a vast rail web in the center of the city, where six main lines converge. Extensive rail repair installations also are in the city, which now is of prime importance in the German defense system since the heavy pounding of Berlin.

Fifteen bombers and six fighters of the Eighth Air Force were missing from the Thursday's assault, but some were believed to have landed in friendly territory. It was announced tonight that figures on the Eighth's losses Wednesday, when 1,350 bombers and 900 fighters took part, still were not available.

Dresden was attacked for the fourth time since the great air assault began Tuesday night, some 200 more American heavies bringing the total bomb weight unloaded on the Saxon capital to 4,000 tons.

A synthetic oil refinery at Madgeburg, 65 miles southwest of Berlin, was the target for more than 350 bombers making their 12th attack of the war and their second of the week on the plant. The refinery is one of only four synthetic fuel producers believed still to be active in Germany.

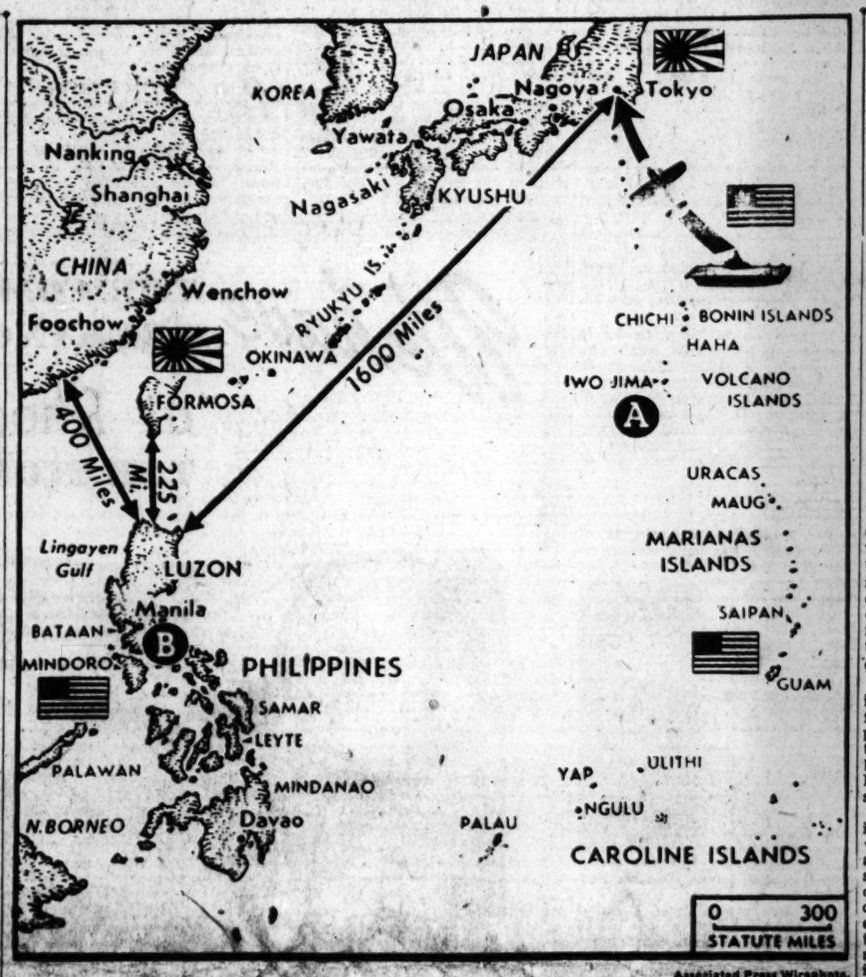

It was estimated that 14,000 Allied planes—more than half of them heavy bombers which had spread some 20,000 tons of explosives on at least 15 industrial and rail centers from Austria to the Ruhr—had taken part in the great 48-hour linkup of the eastern and western fronts.

The figure included Allied tac-

WHERE NAVY ATTACKS—Historic events are under way in the Pacific. While a powerful U. S. task force is shuttling carrier planes against Tokyo and nearby centers, other Pacific fleet surface units are bombarding Iwo Jima (a) in the Volcano islands. On Luzon, U. S. ground forces are nearing victory in the battle for Manila (b).

Ships Line Up Off Jap Coast

ADM. NIMITZ' HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Friday, Feb. 16. (UP)—A United States Navy task force is attacking Tokyo, its air bases and other military installations with more than 1,200 carrier planes after steaming within 300 miles or less of the Japanese coast in the boldest operation in naval history.

News of the mighty assault was announced in a brief communique by Adm. Nimitz at his advanced headquarters here.

The attack, a steel fist hurled at the heart of Japan, has been planned for four months. The carrier task force is the greatest the world has ever seen. The fleet, battleships, cruisers and other warships in addition to the carriers, is prepared to fight it out with anything the Japanese can float or fly.

Over Tokyo, over the great Tokyo port of Yokohama, over the Yokosuka naval base on Tokyo bay, American carrier plane crews nearly 5,500 miles from San Francisco are fighting it out as this dispatch is written in a sky turned into an inferno with everything the Japanese can muster.

OTHER NAVAL ACTION

While the carrier force is attacking Tokyo, Nimitz disclosed, surface ships of the Fifth Fleet and planes of the Pacific Ocean Strategic Air Force are shelling and bombing the Japanese Volcano and Bonin islands 700 to 750 miles south of Tokyo.

But the Tokyo attack is it. It is the beginning of the end for the warlords' lair. This is no sneak attack. The United States Fleet sprawled over 5,000 square miles of ocean went up to Japan's front door and started to kick it in. The enemy challenged and is believed to be throwing every plane it can muster from Japan and Formosa in a blind, desperate attempt to protect the capital and its vicinity.

Its fleet may come out to meet the challenge, but it is doubted here.

FAMED CARRIER RAIDER

V. Adm. Marc A. Mitscher, famed carrier plane raider, is directing the attack on Tokyo and its area, which includes the great port of Yokohama and the naval base of Yokosuka on Tokyo bay, with a task force including battleships. It was America's most implicit challenge to the Imperial navy to come out and fight.

Warships of the immensely powerful Fifth Fleet under Adm. Raymond A. Spruance are shelling Iwo island, in the Volcano islands, 750 miles south of Tokyo.

The planes of the strategic air force are attacking Iwo and nearby positions in the Bonin islands to the north.

Tokyo broadcasts said that small planes were attacking Tokyo air strips in waves and hitting near-

Manila Mop-Up Nears End

Corregidor, Bataan Pounded by Bombs; Forts Study Singapore

By The Associated Press.

The last blazing pocket of Japanese resistance in south Manila is steadily shrinking under the American squeeze which already has throttled the enemy's hopes of making the battle for the city a turning point in the Luzon campaign.

Gen. MacArthur's communique late yesterday said captured documents indicated the Nipponese garrison in Manila had been more than 20,000 men, with hundreds of guns and thousands of mines, all intended to turn American successes into crushing defeat.

But the Japanese, unbalanced by rapid and unexpected American envelopment from the east and north, have lost hundreds of cannon and machineguns, MacArthur said. Aside from the thousands of enemy planes destroyed, another 420 have been captured on Luzon airfields.

JAPS ON BATAAN STRAFED

While heavy bombers pounded Fort Corregidor in Manila Bay with 112 tons of explosives, attack planes and fighters strafed Japanese positions on Bataan.

American doughboys and armor striking swiftly down the east coast of Bataan peninsula seized the Balanga-Pilar area at the terminus of the highway which cuts across to the west coast.

The enemy radio reported a reconnaissance flight of a few Superforts over Singapore.

An unconfirmed Tokyo broadcast said 20 American minesweepers started cleaning mines from the channel between Corregidor Fortress and Bataan peninsula Tuesday morning, while transports stood off the bay for a "seaborne thrust at Manila."

CHINESE MASSING

China announced plans to conscript 500,000 Chinese for a mighty offensive to come simultaneously with American landings on the Asiatic mainland coast.

Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of American forces in China, said that Japan's "overall position" in China is deteriorating because of the enemy's loss of considerable shipping, the accumulation of American air power in the Philippines and the bombing of Nippon by Superforts from China and Marianas bases.

Tokyo radio announced the appointment by Premier Kuniaki Koiso of two cabinet advisers, a

30-Mile Push Outflanks Berlin's Eastern Defenses

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 16.—(AP)—The Red army, paced by attacking American heavy bombers, outflanked Berlin's eastern defenses yesterday in a powerful 30-mile breakthrough which toppled the Brandenburg province stronghold of Sommerfeld, 67 miles from the imperiled Reich capital. Sweeping across the Bober, Luebst and Queis rivers south of their confluence with the central Oder, Marshal Konev's First Ukraine Army cut in behind a 75-mile stretch of the Oder held by the enemy between Fuerstenberg and Neusalz, thus destroying the effectiveness of that defense line guarding the capital on the southeast.

The rapid advance from the depths of Silesia, apparently aimed at racing around the Fuerstenberg-Frankfurt-Kuestrin line due east of Berlin, also overran Sorau, 13 miles southeast of Sommerfeld and Gruenberg, 25 miles northeast of Sommerfeld.

The strength of the Soviet forces invading new sections of Brandenburg, Berlin's home province, was indicated in Premier-Marshal Stalin's order of the day which cited 29 generals in the capture of the three strongholds. Two thousand Germans and 120 parked planes were captured.

Berlin said the Russians already had reached and crossed the Neisse river west of Sommerfeld at a point only 57 miles from Berlin, putting Soviet troops 12 miles from the Spree, last natural defense line guarding Berlin on the southeast.

Front dispatches said that Konev's lower wing also had driven to within 45 miles of Dresden, capital of Saxony, after reaching the Neisse river in the area of Goerlitz, 74 miles northeast of Prague, Czechoslovak capital.

A Stockholm dispatch said that Dresden was a "burning inferno" because of heavy U. S. bomber at-

Won't Accept Penny Of Pay Raise—Arnall

By M. L. ST. JOHN.

Lashing minority pressure groups and declaring he, himself, would not accept a single penny of the $4,500 pay raise proposed for the Governor in the new constitution, Gov. Arnall has appealed to the people of Georgia to help him and the legislature withstand "raids on the state treasury."

The Governor issued a statement yesterday asking the people to make their wishes known on bills pending in the legislature, so that the general assembly would not mistake the noise of minority groups for the voice of the people.

"The legislature wants to do what the people want done," Arnall asserted, "but some members may be misled into believing the voice of the selfish minority is the voice of the people. The people cannot blame the legislature for carrying out what they believe to be the wishes of the people unless they make their wishes known. The legislature is trying to do a good job. Whether it does or not depends upon the people."

As an example of groups trying to raid the state treasury by asking tax exemptions, special privileges and at the same time more services of the state government, Gov. Arnall cited a bill exempting gas tax on farm machinery.

"This bill exempts a few rich farmers from paying gasoline taxes," the Governor stated. "The

Showers, Cooler Seen In Atlanta Area Today

The unseasonably warm weather now prevalent throughout the Atlanta area is due to end today, according to the weather bureau at the municipal airport. The forecast reads: "Partly cloudy, with showers." The temperature during the day, the forecast indicates, will range between 55 and 60 degrees. Following the showers the indications are for cooler weather.

The high temperature of 77 degrees at 3:30 p. m. yesterday represented an all-time high for Feb. 15 for the Atlanta area. The low was 44 at 7 a. m.

Allies Thrust for Key Rhine City In Face of Heavy Artillery Fire

PARIS, Friday, Feb. 16.—(UP) British and Scottish troops fought through the heaviest artillery and mortar fire of the eight-day-old offensive yesterday to within two miles of the strategic road hub of Goch, keystone of the Nazis Rhineland defenses, as a Canadian amphibious spearhead reached the Rhine west of Emmerich.

Everywhere along the front south and east of captured Kleve the enemy threw in new troops, tanks, guns and mortars to halt the Allied spearheads ripping into his second belt of Rhineland defenses.

At least one column—aiming at Uedem along the Kleve-Uedem road—was forced to stop and dig in under the fury of German attacks, but elsewhere the Allied spearheads made slow gains in bitter fighting.

In the long-quiet U. S. Seventh Army front east of Sarreguemines, American troops struck suddenly on a five-mile front, advancing more than a mile in an operation to straighten and shorten their lines. The assault swept up Rimling, eight miles east of Sarreguemines.

Four Allied armies tightened a relentless ring on Goch, a 12-way road and rail hub.

Leading the drive were two columns of the famous Black Watch regiment, the Royal Highlanders whose battle history dates back 200 years and who gained the nickname of "Ladies From Hell" in the first World War.

The Black Watch Scots, driving south from Kleve, fought their way to within two miles of Goch while a companion spearhead captured Kessel in the Nazis' second line of defenses and swept on within three miles of the road hub from the northwest.

A British column to the left of the Scots drove nearly two miles beyond Bedburg to within four miles of Goch. Another on the right swept through Hommersum and last was reported five miles west of the city.

The Germans fought desperately against each of the converging columns, and threw in new elements of the seven divisions already reported battling in the Kleve area.

North of Kleve, a Canadian spearhead drove two miles past Warheven through deep floodwaters to gain control of Hurendeich and reach the Rhine bank at the Hurendeich ferry crossing west of Emmerich, the escape route for decimated German forces fleeing northeast of Kleve.

The Canadians, fighting from powerful amphibious assault craft, found little opposition along the flooded Rhine bank. Front dispatches said the Germans found this type of amphibious warfare extremely distasteful because the Canadians were equipped for it while Nazi troops were not.

A severe ground haze checked

GIVEN 207 YEARS AS CHILD-SLAYER, BOY, 15, LEAVES COURT CHUCKLING

DIXON, Ill., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Norman Burton, 15, was sentenced to 207 years in prison by Circuit Judge George C. Dixon today on his plea of guilty to murdering his five-year-old niece, Sara Jane Tyne, with a hammer and a knife last Dec. 20 in her parents' home.

The judge also ruled that Burton be placed in solitary confinement each year on the anniversary of the slaying.

The slender youth, who had shown no previous emotion during a two-day hearing, walked out of the courtroom chuckling to himself.

Under the sentence, the youth would be eligible to parole in 69 years—when he would be 84 years old.

Psychiatrists, after questioning the boy, declared he was mentally ill, adding "he doesn't have the appropriate feeling." Judge Dixon said, however, that "the court is definitely satisfied that he knew the difference between good and evil."

Statham, mother, 207 East Oxford avenue, College Park, and John Frank, of Savannah.

All of the soldiers were exchanged in Switzerland for German prisoners of war and the War Department has announced that leaves and furlough will be provided for those physically capable. For those physically unable to take a furlough, hospitalization will be continued.

Pay accounts of the Army personnel will be settled in full and necessary clothing will be issued together with awards and decorations.

Central American republics represented by exchanged repatriates include Mexico, El Salvador, Cuba, Costa Rica, Peru and Venezuela.

The Gripsholm sailed from Marseille, France, Feb. 8.

One Georgian Killed Overseas In Accident; 2 Missing, 2 Hurt

Another Georgian has been killed overseas, two are missing in action and two have been wounded, according to War Department messages to their families.

Killed:

S. Sgt. Tyler H. Fitzgerald, 33, Medical Corps, was killed Jan. 17 in France in a train accident, the War Department has notified his wife, Mrs. Helen Price Fitzgerald, of 931 North College street, College Park.

Member of an ambulance company, S. Sgt. Fitzgerald left for overseas the first part of the year and was on his way to active duty at the time of the accident. He was a native of Birmingham, Ala., and was employed by the American Optical Company there before going into service July 21, 1943. He was stationed at Camp Edwards, Mass.; Fort Dix, N. J.; Camp Breckinridge, Ky., and Ft. Jackson, S. C.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lena Fitzgerald; a sister, Mrs. P. B. Simmons, both of Birmingham; a sister, Mrs. Katherine Marett, of Washington, D. C.; a brother, Dr. W. L. Fitzgerald; two nephews, Joe and Billy Fitzgerald, and a niece, Mrs. William Ellis, all of Miami.

As the result of a new War Department policy, The Constitution will soon supply names of casualties within a few days after relatives receive word that a soldier has been killed, wounded or taken prisoner, or that he is missing.

For some time past it has been eight to nine weeks after notification of next of kin before the casualty lists arrived and were released from Washington, thus creating confusion among the relatives who sometimes have thought that a soldier was being reported as a casualty for a second time.

Wounded:

S. Sgt. Willie Eugene Lambert, 22, of the Infantry, was wounded in action in Belgium on Jan. 14, the War Department has notified his wife, Mrs. Frances Lambert, of 789 Capitol avenue, S. W. The son of Mrs. W. C. Lambert, of 78 Clifton street, S. E., he has a three-month-old daughter, Carol Jeanne, whom he has never seen.

Pfc. Hardwick Avant was wounded in action in Belgium on Jan. 28, the War Department has notified his brother, Jerome Avant, of Dublin.

Missing:

Pfc. Howard S. McLarty, 25, of the Infantry, has been missing in action in France since Jan. 16, the War Department has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. McLarty, of Route 4, Douglasville.

H. S. McLarty.

Entering the service in Dec. 1942, he received his training in New Orleans, La.; Van Buren, Ark., and Camp Barkeley, Texas. He went overseas last September with an armored division of Patch's Seventh Army.

Pfc. McLarty attended Douglasville High school and completed his final high school year from a correspondence school. Prior to his induction, he was employed by Southern Railway Company.

He is the brother of Miss Frances McLarty and Mrs. A. B. Greene, of Douglasville, and Miss Gladys McLarty, of Atlanta.

Sgt. William J. Boles, of Duluth, has been missing in action in Belgium since Dec. 22, the War Department has notified his wife, Mrs. Ivan A. Boles, of Lawrenceville.

Joining the service in July 1940, he received his training at Ft. Knox, Ky.; Camp Shelby, Miss.; Camp Polk, La.; Desert Training Center, Cal., and Fort Benning. He left for overseas in April 1944, and has seen action in France and Holland. He was awarded the Bronze Star Medal last October.

He is the son of Mrs. W. A. Martin, of Duluth.

WHEELER IS LABELED 'PRO-FASCIST,' 'ADVOCATE OF GOEBBELS' BY IZVESTIA

MOSCOW, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Izvestia assailed Sen. Burton K. Wheeler today for criticism of the Polish agreement in the Crimea conference, calling the Montana Democrat "a worshipper of the reactionary clique of Polish exiles and a leader of the pro-Fascist element in the United States."

"Really," the article said, "Goebbels has not lost his American advocates yet."

The newspaper declared that the Soviet people not only heartily approved of the conference decisions, but were "determined by all means to realize them." It characterized a statement of Tomasz Arciszewski, premier of the London Polish exile government, as "remarkable for its lack of realism," and added that "'the democratic government of Arciszewski' fears democracy above all else."

Pleas Overruled In Foster Suit

Although Judge A. L. Etheridge, of the Fulton superior court, overruled general demurrers made by both sides in the county sheriff's controversy, the status of T. Ralph Grimes as chief deputy sheriff is still undecided.

Judge Etheridge yesterday overruled a general demurrer to Sheriff A. B. (Bud) Foster's mandamus against the county commissioners, and also overruled a general demurrer to the commissioners' answer.

By his action, the judge allowed the petitions to stand and be supported by relevant evidence, his order said.

"If the parties in this case so desire, they may apply to the court for an advanced and immediate hearing and disposition of all issues of law and fact either by the court on an agreed statement of fact, or by a jury," the court ruling added.

Foster's mandamus asked that the board of commissioners approve his appointment of Carl W. Smithwick as chief deputy. In an answer to the petition, the commission claimed that T. Ralph Grimes is chief deputy under the civil service act.

$1,340,786 Is U. S. Profit From POWs in State

Approximately 9,700 prisoners of war in Georgia camps, working at Army installations and under private and public contracts in the state, returned a profit of $1,340,786 to the government in the four-month period ending Dec. 31, 1944, it is announced by Fourth Service Command headquarters.

The profit represents the difference between the 80 cents per day paid each working prisoner in canteen coupons and the per day cash wage scale which would have been paid civilian workers, had they been available, the report stated.

The major portion of the profit realized by the government came from Georgia Army installations where prisoners work in shops, laundries or on the grounds. In the fourth-month period, prisoners worked 434,851 man days at military installations and returned a profit of $1,120,522.

On private contract work in the state, prisoners worked 258,358 man days with a profit to the government of $220,126. This included harvesting peanuts, peaches and other crops, and pulpwood work.

The government realized a profit of $138 on 353 man days worked by prisoners in public contract work.

George Bill Gets Floor By Tight Squeeze

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Legislation enabling Henry A. Wallace to become secretary of a cut-down Commerce Department barely survived today its first test on the house floor.

By a vote of 202 to 192, the Democratic leadership turned back a solid Republican front, joined by some southern Democrats, that sought to sweep the senate-passed George bill off the house floor.

Georgia representatives voting for consideration of the George bill were Brown, Camp, Pace, Ramspeck, Tarver, Vinson and Wood. Reps. Cox, Gibson and Peterson voted against it.

A change of six votes in the first house test would have thrown the government future of the former vice president into confusion.

Speaker Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, and other Democratic leaders appeared confident after the narrow victory today, but the opposition will get another crack at the bill on the final vote, at the end of debate probably late Friday.

In today's test, an effort to form an overpowering coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats—a combination that often dominates legislation in the house—failed, although Rep. Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, usual coalition leader, sought to bring the southerners into line against the George bill.

Republican lines held solid in the voting, which showed that 200 Democrats were joined by the two minor party (one Progressive and one American-Labor) members, for immediate consideration, while 19 Democrats—all from the south or border states—aligned with 173 Republicans in the effort to sweep the bill off the floor.

The debate swung into alternate criticism and praise of Wallace. Chairman Sabath, Democrat, Illinois, of the Rules Committee, described him as "a champion of the common people" and Rep. Cox, Democrat, Georgia, rules member, said a majority of the committee felt he is "unfit to become secretary of commerce under any condition."

Just prior to the test vote, Democratic Leader McCormack, of Massachusetts, shouted to the house that opposition to the bill is "unadulterated politics," and Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, shouted back that Democrats in opposition "are as good Democrats as you are."

Parole Board Answers Charges Of DeKalb Jury

Edward B. Everett, chairman of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles, has answered charges of H. C. Carithers, foreman of the DeKalb county grand jury, that DeKalb officials have not been notified of parole hearings and that some persons have been paroled who should not have been.

Charging DeKalb court officials had not furnished "pertinent data immediately after sentence" as requested, Everett said in a letter that county's cases were investigated by a state-paid, impartial parole supervisor "and your county officials were contacted for information and recommendations as a part of our routine investigation."

Everett said further that the board "regrets that the release of several parolees did not meet with your approval. The four prisoners mentioned in your presentments, as well as all others paroled back to your county, have lived up to the terms of their release, are gainfully employed, and are conducting themselves as law-abiding citizens. We feel that this, of itself, should be sufficient to offset your criticism."

Germans Strive To Pull Army From Yugoslavia

ROME, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The Germans toiled desperately today to get their battered Balkan army out of Yugoslavia for use against the Russians after daylong attacks by American and British planes nad left the Zagreb-Vienna escape route littered with the wreckage of military trains.

Both U. S. and RAF craft struck heavy blows yesterday at enemy movements northward toward Vienna. Ahmerican heavies blasted rail yards at Graz, Maribor and Zagreb—all key points on the Nazi evacuation route—and escorting Lightning fighters shot up 12 heavily-loaded troop trains.

Only two Nazi fighters attempted to interfere as the fleet of more than 500 Flying Fortresses and Liberators delivered their loads with what was officially described as good results. Both enemy planes were beaten off.

Lt. Col. Robert M. Wray, of Omaha, Neb., was credited with destroying three locomotives as the Lightnings swarmed down on the northbound trains between Zagreb and Graz. Lt. Frank A. Kietler, Hamburg, N. Y., was credited with two.

South African Beaufighters pumped 16 rockets into railyards at Karlovac, 30 miles southwest of Zagreb, starting fires visible for more than 50 miles. RAF Mustang squadrons claimed destruction of 15 locomotives.

U. S. Job Deferments Over Doubled in Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The number of federal workers receiving draft deferments because of their employment has more than doubled since last year, congress was told today.

Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey reported 255,909 government job-holders qualified for military service were deferred as of December 1, 1944. In a report a year ago the total was given as 130,605.

There are 6,477 deferred in Georgia, he said.

Biggest Fleet In History Set To Smash

The following story by Vern Haugland, Associated Press correspondent, was released by the censor when news of the carrier force strike on Tokyo and environs was announced:

By VERN HAUGLAND.

A UNITED STATES NAVAL BASE IN THE PACIFIC, Feb. 8.—(Delayed)—The largest warfleet in history rides at anchor here restlessly awaiting the date already scheduled when for the first time an American seaborne force will strike at Tokyo in force.

The task force is so large that it is difficult for the mind to grasp this fantastic mixture of large and small fighting ships and all the auxiliary vessels needed to keep them armed, fueled and supplied.

Of the hundreds of vessels in this great base, scores of them will steam toward Tokyo within a few days in quest of a fight.

The task force will be the greatest ever known to man—greater even than dreamed of a few years ago and it will include the largest and newest American carriers, battleships, light carriers, jeep carriers, cruisers and destroyers.

It will launch considerably more than 1,200 planes against Japan's main island of Honshu in the first low-level air attack upon Tokyo and any other cities selected as worthwhile targets.

Ships in this greatest of fighting fleets will stand off Honshu forming a line 200 miles or more up and down the coast while fighter, dive-bomber and torpedo planes carry the war into the heart of Japan.

This great anchorage where warships and auxiliaries are preparing for the greatest strike of the war is a place of constant orderly activity. Small craft churn the blue-green waters, dashing back and forth between vessels.

At night low-lying clouds glow with the flashing of signals between ships.

It is a 24-hour-a-day job to get this battlefleet into operation.

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in the Want Ad pages of The Constitution.

Sabu is credited with one "smoker." During a Borneo raid he got one burst into a Zero. It was smoking when it disappeared in a cloud.

ments said. "Of this number there were some 14 released after being sentenced from Newton county.

"Insofar as this body has been able to ascertain, these criminals were released without any law enforcement officer of Newton county being informed of any hearing to be had or being given any notice whatsoever, in order that they might be heard in the matter or that they might in turn notify Newton county citizens who might have been interested in the matter.

"It appears from this report that those released who have been sentenced from Newton county have been released before they had served more than half of the sentence imposed."

The presentments cited the case of S. B. Nelson, who was sentenced in 1940 to serve 20-20 years for attacking a seven-year-old girl, and charged that Nelson was granted a parole on May 6, 1944, after he had served less than four years of the 20-year sentence.

The only reason given for the release, the presentments said, was: "The defendant being eligible for parole and there being a reasonable probability that the prisoner will not again engage in crime, and it being the opinion of the state board of pardons and paroles that his release is not incompatible with the welfare of society, he is therefore released."

This same reason was given for the release of Johnson, the jurors said.

"This grand jury is of the opinion that such act on the part of the state board amounts in effect to a substitution of their opinion for the verdicts of the juries selected and chosen to try cases and fix punishments," the presentments continued.

"This body feels that where juries hear the evidence in criminal cases and where they have exercised their conscientious judgment and have fixed a sentence, that sentence should be respected and should not be set aside by any board unless there is clear and convincing proof that there has been a miscarriage of justice."

Nazi Party List, Payroll Are Ordered Destroyed

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Both the Paris and Moscow radios reported today that Heinrich Himler had ordered the Gestapo to destroy all lists of party members and pay rolls.

The order — presumably issued to mask the identity of party leaders after the fall of Germany—first was applied only to eastern front towns but now has been extended to cover the whole Reich, the broadcasts said.

by areas, and said the "air battle is still going on."

It was three years, two months and a week after the enemy's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. To attack Hawaii, the Japanese had gone 3,394 miles eastward. But they had fallen short of the American homeland by 2,091 miles.

HEART OF JAPAN

Nimitz' ships and men had gone 5,485 miles westward to span the Pacific and today they are attacking the heart of Japan. It was with evident pride that Nimitz issued the following historic communique:

"Vice Adm. Mitscher is in command of a powerful task force of the Pacific Fleet which is now attacking enemy aircraft, air bases and other military targets in and around Tokyo.

"This operation has long been planned and the opportunity to accomplish it fulfills the deeply cherished desire of every officer and man in the Pacific Fleet.

"Surface units of the Pacific Fleet are bombarding Iwo Jima. Aircraft of the Strategic Air Force of the Pacific ocean areas are bombing Iwo Jima and nearby positions in the Bonin islands.

"The fleet forces are under the tactical command of Adm. R. A. Spruance, commander Fifth Fleet."

A few months ago Secretary of Navy Forrestal said the United States had in the Pacific two fleets, the Third and the Fifth, either of which could meet the Japanese navy in knockout battle.

Before the warship-plane attack on Iwo now in progress, the little triangular island, five miles long by two and one-half, had been under plane attack for 69 straight days.

To the south, the Japanese were being squeezed to death in Manila. They had lost the Philippines. Gen. MacArthur's planes daily were attacking Formosa, between the Philippines and Tokyo.

An NBC broadcast from Guam said the Tokyo attack was causing "great devastation and desolation in Tokyo, and if we run true to form Tokyo will be a ruined city by the time we get through."

HISTORIC ATTACK

A few hours before this historic attack on Tokyo and its surrounding area started, a giant fleet of United States Superfortresses, based in these same Marianas islands, had attacked the Japanese port and aircraft center of Nagoya, 265 miles west of Tokyo.

Tokyo broadcasts said that Mitscher's fleet planes opened their attack at 7:15 a. m. Friday (Japanese time) (5:15 p. m. Thursday CWT).

They gave a brief but vivid picture in their guarded phrasing of a lightning attack and of ferocious air battles all over the area of Tokyo bay from the capital at the upper end to Yokohama, one of the world's greatest ports, the west shore and Yokosuka naval base at the southwest corner.

Tokyo said it had observed "enemy surface movements" off Japan for several days. If it had, contrary to its usual custom, it had remained silent. Tokyo usually is first on the air with such information, fishing for a reply which might betray fleet movements.

Tokyo has been attacked frequently from the air by giant Superfortresses based in the Marianas, 1,500 miles distant, and only Tuesday Japan announced that it had begun moving major war plants and aircraft factories to Manchuria.

JAP REPORTS

Tokyo radio reported that "several formations" of small American aircraft had attacked airstrips in the vicinity of the Japanese capital. This presumably referred to Mitscher's carrier planes.

Guam, site of Nimitz's newly announced advanced headquarters, is 1,600 miles southeast of Tokyo.

Not since April 18, 1942, have carrier-based planes raided Tokyo. On that date, a few minutes before noon, 16 North American Billy Mitchell medium bombers, manned by finely trained U. S. Army pilots, swooped in at low level and dropped bombs on selected industrial targets.

The bombers were launched from the aircraft carrier U. S. S. Hornet, later sunk. They were under command of Lt. Gen. (then Lt. Col.) James Doolittle.

Tokyo said that after the first attack by "small" planes, an estimated 20 "other enemy aircraft" penetrated into the Kanto area, including Tokyo. Targets were not identified.

Tokyo claimed the Japs routed the raiding aircraft and that a "considerable number" had been shot down or damaged over the Boso peninsula southeast of Tokyo "up to the moment."

Mitscher's powerful task force was augmented for this operation by the addition of more carriers and fast battleships. Nimitz built up the carrier force to touch off a new phase in the war against Japan—operations leading to the eventual occupation of the enemy's homeland.

RECENT STRIKES

The addition of more ships was made after the group, under Adm. Halsey, made its recent strikes against Indo-China, China, Formosa and the Ryukyus.

Today's carrier attack and subsequent operations which will be directed against the enemy homeland in the future are part of the ever-increasing pressure being brought to force Japan to her knees.

Despite the Japanese advantage of operating from home airfields, it was believed that the American force involved in the current operation is so powerful it will be made to maintain temporary aerial supremacy over the enemy's capital. The Pacific Fleet may have had more fighters in the area than the enemy when the attack began.

Although the Japanese can reinforce the target area with planes from other homeland airfields and nearby islands, it is questionable whether such reinforcements could be brought to bear soon enough to change the tactical picture.

Although Nimitz sent the carrier force within easy striking distance of Japan itself, a major fleet action was not probable. An air-naval engagement of comparatively minor proportions might ensue, however.

The Japanese still have a certain amount of naval strength to be reckoned with, despite their defeats in recent months, but it was believed that they were not strong enough to challenge the U. S. Fleet in a gun action.

A goodly proportion of the remaining Japanese naval strength may have been found in port and those warships within the target area would be important objectives. They probably would head out to sea as rapidly as possible, in an attempt to maneuver out of range of the attacking force.

Baking Company, 5 Men Indicted In WFA Case

Columbia Baking Company, operating under the trade name of Stone Baking Company, and five employes were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on charges of violationg a War Food Administration order regulating the manufacture and sale of bakery products.

Named in the indictment were J. W. Head, N. O. Smith and W. V. Smith, route supervisors for the company, and D. C. Spinks and E. H. Abernathy, route salesmen. According to the indictment, the employes resumed possession of unsold stale bread from more than 20 Atlanta grocery stores and replaced it with fresh bread without charge, in violation of a WFA conservation measure which forbids collection of stale bakery products.

WFA officials explained that the conservation order is designed to prevent grocery stores from buying more bakery products than they can sell. Company officials had no statement to make regarding the indictment.

The grand jury also returned an indictment against C. C. Anderson, C. J. Goddard and C. S. Lee on three counts of conspiracy, making false statements and selling a used car above OPA ceiling prices. The three defendants overcharged L. N. McCart, employe of the Bell bomber plant, for a used automobile last December and falsely reported to the OPA that the sale was within ceiling price limits, the indictment said.

A third indictment true-billed by the grand jury charged Arthur Frederick, of Floyd county, with illegal possession of nontax paid liquor in violation of the internal revenue laws.

Those appointed were former Munitions Minister Ginjuro Fujiwara, known as Japan's "paper king", and for more than 50 years affiliated with the Mitsui financial interests, and Yoshiaki Hatta, transportation expert and former president of the Japanese chamber of commerce. The broadcast was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

These new members of the advisory board are expected to tackle weak points in Japan's wartime economy, including iron and steel production and rail transportation.

Tot Strolls on Tracks, Killed by Freight Train

Rosalee Louise Burrell, 13-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burrell, of Route 1, Forest Park, was killed yesterday when struck by a southbound Central of Georgia freight train near the Burrel home.

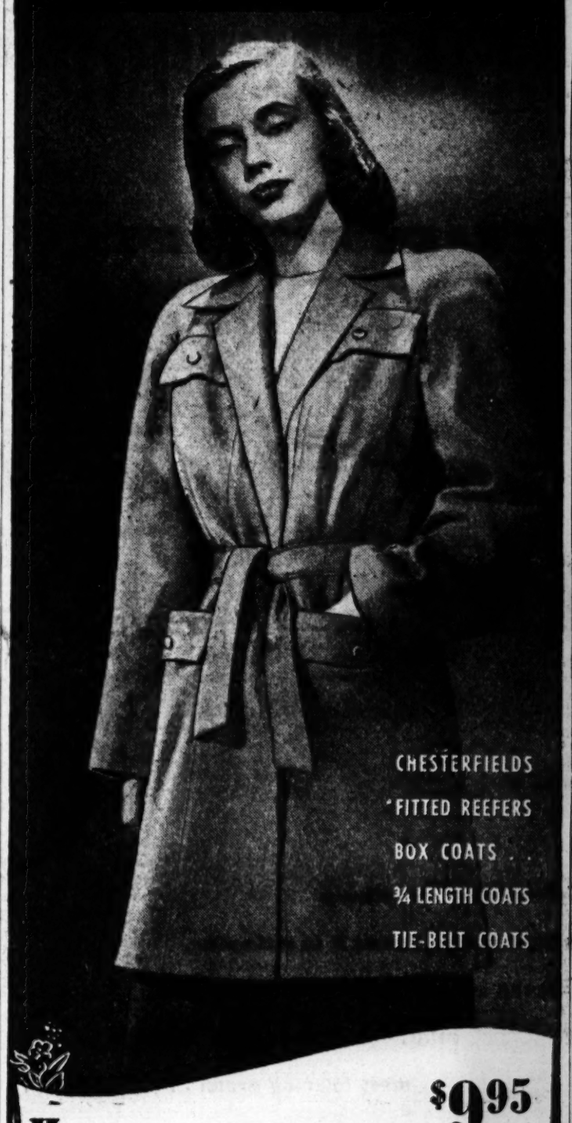

The child had strolled from the yard unnoticed by her parents and had gotten on the railroad track, said a relative.

In addition to her parents, other survivors include a sister, Elizabeth Burrell, and her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Ezzell, of Macon.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Nazis' Oil Practically 'Dried Up'

SHAEF, PARIS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Russian armies in the east and Gen. Eisenhower's forces in the west have overrun 36 of Germany's 81 major refineries and synthetic oil plants in their two-way squeeze on the Reich.

As a result of the ground and air attacks, German production of motor fuel, which once ran well over 500,000 tons a month, now is 103,000 tons a month, according to information available here. This is considered by the Allies as hardly enough to keep an average sized air force in action.

Because of the constant "policing" by Allied strategic air forces, only four synthetic oil plants now are believed to be operating. These are at Bohlen, Ruhland, Magdeburg and Merseburg, where the huge Leuna plant is located. All the crude oil plants have been made inactive, with one possible exception.

New Era Seen For Georgia Radio Listeners

An era of expanded radio activity, especially in the newer field of frequency modulation (FM), is in store for Georgia after the war.

If all applications now on file with the Federal Communications Commission are granted, the air waves of Georgia will be well-filled with the static-free FM programs.

As of January 24 the FCC's files included applications for five commercial FM stations in the state—three at Macon (WBML, WHAZ and the Macon Telegraph); one at Atlanta (The Constitution), and one at Moultrie (WMGA).

In addition, the State Department of Education has plans for a state-wide network of educational FM stations, in co-operation with the U. S. office of education.

Also, Atlanta's board of education has applied for a noncommercial educational station and several interests are seeking licenses for new standard commercial stations. No reports are available at present on these applications, however.

At present Georgia has 32 standard stations.

No FM stations are listed as operating in the state now, and no television applications have been received as yet.

Nationally, the FCC has 361 applications pending for FM stations and 101 for television stations. Operators are seeking such licenses not only because of the new service involved, but because comparatively little room is left on regular standard channels.

Materials and manpower shortages have caused FCC to put off consideration until after the war of virtually all applications except in educational and experimental fields.

$1-a-Week Baby Bonus Proposed in Britain

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A postwar bonus plan for big families providing five shillings (about $1) weekly for each child beyond the first was proposed in a government bill made public today.

Sir William Jowitt, minister of social insurance, estimated about 2,600,000 families with approximately 4,400,000 children, apart from the first child, would qualify.

The bonus would be part of the comprehensive government "Beveridge plan." Sir William Beveridge originally proposed a bonus of eight shillings weekly. The government contended, however, the new bill was more generous for it would provide school meals and free milk worth 10 shillings.

New Housing Seen for Fire Signal System

Firemasters' Board Will Consider Plan To Safeguard City

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Proposed acquisition of a tract of land near the municipal auditorium to rehouse the $200,000 signal system of the Atlanta fire department in a modern fireproof structure will be studied by the Atlanta board of firemasters at a meeting set for 8 p. m. Feb. 26.

Following a conference yesterday, Councilman William T. Knight, chairman of a special subcommittee from the Atlanta board of firemasters, decided to take a proposal to the committee asking that the city pay $40,000 for the tract which fronts 150 feet on both Gilmer and Courtland streets. The property is now improved and is at the southwest intersection.

The move to place the important fire department signal system in a fireproof structure was given new life several weeks ago when it was agreed that a fund of $250,000 probably might be made available for the undertaking.

Owners of the property asserted they are not attempting to dispose of it, that it is not on the market for sale, but asserted they would be willing to dispose of it to the city to give needed protection to the fire signal system.

For years, the valuable equipment has been housed at fire headquarters which is not a fire resistant structure, and underwriters have insisted repeatedly that some arrangements should be made to move it from the highly congested district and also to house it in a fireproof building.

Knight, who also is chairman of the board of firemasters, said his subcommittee will recommend acceptance of the proposed purchase, and if sanctioned by the firemasters, he proposes to submit it to the mayor and council for approval.

17 State Legislatures Vote For 25 Pct. Income Tax Limit

By INEZ ROBB.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(INS)—Advocates of the proposed 22d amendment to the constitution to limit federal income, gift and inheritance taxes to 25 per cent are confident the proposal is gaining such momentum as to force its consideration by the current session of congress.

A spokesman of the Committee for Constitutional Government, one of the many organizations advocating the amendment, said today that proponents are hopeful of congressional action within the next 18 months.

Backed by powerful tax organizations, and business associations and interests, the measure has been gathering strength since 1938. Legislatures of 17 states, representing a population of 53,000,000, have already passed resolutions memorializing congress in favor of such an amendment.

If five more state legislatures pass the resolution, proponents of the 25 per cent measure feel certain that congress will be forced to consider such an amendment.

The resolution has already been introduced into the current legislatures of five states: New York, Kansas, Oregon, Connecticut and New Mexico. It is being considered by the legislative minds of another 10 states: California, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Washington, Idaho, Maryland, Minnesota, South Carolina and Nevada.

States which have already voted favorably to memorialize congress on this issue are: Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

This is the second time the resolution has been considered by the assembly of New York state, probably the most powerful financial community in the nation. It was passed by a small majority in the lower house of New York's legislature a year ago, but declared inoperative by the speaker, who ruled that a majority of the whole house was required for its passage. Now, New York's assembly is once more to consider it.

Such an amendment, if approved by congress and three-fourths of the states, would drastically affect the national economy, now attuned to income taxes in excess of 85 per cent in the higher brackets. Its proponents believe that a 25 per cent ceiling on taxes would free capital after the war.

Two Fulton Tax Measures Go Before House

Two resolutions proposing amendments to the state constitution that would enlarge Fulton county's school bonding and taxing authority were offered yesterday in the house of representatives by the Fulton delegation.

One would permit the county to incur new debts for school purposes with the approval of two-thirds of the qualified voters participating in an election, provided those voting constituted a majority of the qualified list.

TO LIMIT SCHOOL TAX

Another would set the county's maximum tax for school purposes at 15 mills, the minimum at five mills. This provision is designed to become effective only if the new constitution fails to be ratified, according to County Atty. Harold Sheats, who said the proposed document provides school taxing authority "entirely satisfactory to Fulton county."

Rep. Mankin offered a bill to amend the charter of Union City to permit persons to be fined a maximum of $100 in the mayor's court and the promulgation of traffic regulations.

COBB SALARY BILL

The house passed a bill to authorize the Cobb county commissioner to fix the salary of his clerk.

Legislation to set up a Brunswick Port Authority was offered yesterday by the Glynn county delegation.

Rep. Charlie Gowan, of Glynn, said the measure was aimed at providing a separate authority to "get on" with the development of Brunswick's seaport facilities should the general asembly fail to enact a pending bill to create an all-inclusive State Port Authority. If the latter bill is approved, the solon added, the Brunswick Authority would act merely in an advisory capacity.

ARNALL

one-gallused farmer won't receive any benefits from this exemption. The favor will accrue to the gentleman farmer."

Continuing the theme he followed in a "tough" address to the joint session of the legislature on the preceding day, Arnall said:

"Why it is that the people cannot understand that if we are going to educate their children, build their roads and increase public services we cannot exempt taxes, is a mystery to me. What Georgia needs, what other states need, and what the federal government needs is hardheaded business sense and determination to fight for all the people rather than constantly responding to minority pressure group demands."

REGARDING HIS RAISE

Joked about the legislature approving a pay raise for the Governor's office a few minutes after he had called for a halt on salary increases, Arnall said:

"I opposed increasing the Governor's pay when I served as chairman of the constitution redrafting commission. I still oppose it. If it is approved, I will not accept a single penny of the increase, provided by this amendment. I ran for office when the pay was $7,500. I don't think it is right to increase my pay during the term for which I was elected."

If the constitutional amendment is adopted, Arnall would be eligible for a pay increase for 12 days of his present term. The raise would go into effect Jan. 1, 1947, and Arnall's term expires 12 days later.

Great Nations To Keep Peace, FDR Tells Stalin

LONDON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's farewell message to Premier Stalin at the conclusion of the Crimea conference predicted the people of the world would see the results of the meeting "as a real guarantee that our three great nations can work in the peace just as well as in the war."

The text of the message as broadcast from Moscow tonight said:

"On leaving the hospitable shores of the Soviet Union I wish to tell you how deeply grateful I am to you for all the kindness you have shown me while I was your guest in the Crimea.

"I am departing much encouraged by the results of the conference between you, the prime minister and myself.

"The peoples of the world, I am sure, will see the achievements of this conference as a real guarantee that our three great nations can work in the peace as well as in the war."

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in the Want Ad pages of The Constitution.

If you feel "washed out," here's a tip:

EAT IRON-RICH ALL-BRAN TO HELP MAINTAIN BLOOD'S IRON LEVEL

One-ounce dish of Kellogg's All-Bran gives over ⅓ of your daily minimum iron needs

LOTS OF FOLKS who sometimes feel under par may not be getting enough iron. This vital mineral is constantly needed to help make good red blood—to replace the blood normally "worn out" in the process of living.

The best place to get iron is in foods. But not many foods are rich in available iron. In fact, it is not easy to get an abundance of this important mineral in the ordinary diet. Your iron intake can vary greatly from day to day.

Fortunately, there is an everyday cereal that is a rich, inexpensive source of readily assimilable iron. It's ALL-BRAN, made by the Kellogg folks of Battle Creek. Ounce for ounce, this famous cereal gives you 50% more iron than calves' liver.

In addition to iron-richness, this toasty, nut-brown cereal is an important source of calcium, phosphorus and essential vitamins. That's because ALL-BRAN is made from the vital outer layers of finest wheat.

KELLOGG'S All-Bran is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat

You know that Nature makes a habit of storing the larger share of protective food elements in the skin of the potato and the peel of the apple. Into the vital outer layers of wheat, too, Nature packs some of the grain's most important nutrients. ALL-BRAN is made of these vital outer layers, and is more abundant in many food elements than whole wheat itself.

America's Famous Regulating Cereal

Besides being a storehouse of iron and other important food elements, delicious KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is a great natural regulating cereal. Millions of people eat it regularly. Just a one-ounce serving eaten daily is usually adequate for satisfactory laxation. ALL-BRAN, which is triple-milled for golden softness, does not interfere with the process of normal digestion.

Be sure your family gets adequate amounts of iron and other important food elements. Serve KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly, starting today.

DONORS OF 16 PINTS OF BLOOD—EACH

How many blood donors in your family?

Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Clarke, 651 E. 90th Street, Chicago, Ill., have each donated 16 pints of blood. They have been donating regularly since Pearl Harbor. Such patriotic men and women, everywhere, can tell you that anyone in good health can give blood. The fluid part of the blood is restored in a few hours. Maintaining the body's proper iron level helps to replenish your good red blood.

Eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN with fruit, in muffins or on other cereals

Senate Penal Board Bill Defeats Its Own Purpose

The state senate, after a two-day debate over establishing a constitutional penal board removed from control of any governor, yesterday voted into the proposed new constitution a provision later found to defeat the whole purpose upon which it was based.

Senator Everett Millican, of Atlanta, author of the defective amendment, said he would move to have it corrected when the joint house and senate committee study the plan.

Millican's amendment provided for three members of the board, each of whom would serve three-year terms. After the senate approved it, Millican observed that the shortness of the terms would place the constitutional board continually under the power of one governor. Every governor would be able to name two of the three members, since the governor serves four years. He asked for permission to change the board members' terms to five years by unanimous consent, but Senator Sabados, of Albany, declined to permit unanimous consent.

MEASURE SAVED

President Frank Gross saved the constitutional board when he tossed in a ballot to tie the vote at 22 to 22 for its creation. Mrs. Clem Rainey, senator from Dawson, had asked defeat of the constitutional amendment. The senate also beat down efforts to have the board elected by the people rather than appointed by the Governor.

The senate plan differs from the house amendment merely in number of board members and their terms. The house asked five members and five years. The redrafting commission had recommended seven members and seven years.

A constitutional veterans service department was quickly approved by senate vote. The upper house changed the house recommendation in order to provide for seven members with seven-year terms, instead of five members with five-year terms. The redrafters originally asked for the senate plan.

The legislature yesterday received telegrams from Atlanta Negro leaders protesting proposed deletion from the constitution of regulations of primary elections.

"Can the white leaders of Georgia be responsible for knowingly inviting this situation and setting the state back 80 years in an effort to prevent Negro Democrats voting in the primary?" the Negroes asked in telegrams to Gov. Arnall, Senate President Gross and House Speaker Harris. They said most Georgia Negroes voted Democratic in the 1944 general election despite their refusal of ballots in the July 4 primary. They commended Mrs. Helen Mankin, Fulton representative, and Sen. Roy McGinty, of Calhoun, for their efforts to keep primary laws in the constitution. Signing the message were A. T. Walden, C. L. Harper, John Wesley Dobbs and C. A. Scott.

RECONSIDERATION ASKED

The vote on the prison board came a day after the senate had voted to abolish from the constitution the game and fish commission. Senator G. Y. Harrell, of Lumpkin, asked immediate reconsideration of the prison board vote, and he lost his appeal by a count of 28 to 11.

In the debate, Senator William Freeman, of Forsyth, said he had it on good authority that the governor would fight the entire new constitution if the penal reform program were not included.

The roll call vote showed the following favoring the constitutional penal board: Baggett, Bennett, Brown, Causey, Cloud, Cook, Drake, Edwards, Freeman, Greene, Hodges, Holsenbeck, Mavity, McGinty, Millican, Minchew, Moore, Shedd, Slaughter, Stone, Yawn and Gross.

The following opposed the constitutional board: Bentley, Caldwell, Deal, Drinkard, Gillis, Grayson, G. Y. Harrell, Wallace Harrell, Hawes, Hill, Moats, Nix, Norton, Peebles, Rainey, Riley, Sabados, Smith, Mell Turner, Ralph L. Turner, Wall and Welsch.

Senator Minchew, of Axson, introduced a bill yesterday raising fees of justices of the peace by 40 per cent.

Clip All Strings On School Aid, Solons Request

The Georgia house of representatives wants federal aid for schools, but with no strings attached.

In session yesterday, the house adopted a resolution urging congress to pass bills pending in the United States senate and house of representatives to provide federal funds for use by states in their school systems.

The resolution — submitted by Rep. T. Guy Connell, of Valdosta; Rep. Frank S. Twitty, of Camilla; Rep. Fred Hand, of Pelham, and others—says, in part:

"We believe the federal government should grant financial assistance to the states for education, leaving the control of education to the state and local communities."

A state oil and gas commission, consisting of three members appointed by the Governor, would be created to regulate the drilling of gas and oil wells in Georgia under a bill passed by the house and sent to the senate. The vote was 108 to 10.

Rep. Stafford Brooke, of Dalton, introduced a bill to repeal the law which requires eating places to give notice to their guests that oleomargarine is served.

A visiting Florida delegation of senators and representatives, here in the interest of making reciprocal agreements between the two states, was introduced to the house.

Senate President Frank Gross, House Speaker Roy Harris, Sens. Gould and Edenfield, Rep. Gowen and Bell Aircraft officials went by plane yesterday afternoon to Sea Island for the week-end. They will be joined today by Gov. Arnall.

The house temperance committee unfavorably reported legislation proposing state-owned liquor stores, but Rep. Hatchett, of Meriwether, one of the authors, said he would carry the issue to the floor.

Solons Demand Re-examination Of Lend Lease

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Congressional demands for re-examination of lend-lease accounts were voiced today in a report saying the British requested $175,000,000 credit on goods the Navy valued at $10,000,000.

The Senate's War Investigating Committee, sharply criticizing "the apparent lack of a definite national policy on postwar security and economic aims," also called for:

1. An early determination of United States rights to airports and other installations it has constructed throughout the world.

2. Collection of full information as to surpluses, both movable and immovable, and estimates on the cost of dismantling, removal and disposition.

3. A State Department investigation of trade conditions throughout the world. The department, the report added, should assume the obligation of "directing American economic interests after the termination of hostilities."

Belgium Premier Wins Confidence Vote

BRUSSELS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies, 114 to 6, voted confidence today in the new government of Premier Achille Van Acker and thus indorsed proposals by the premier and various cabinet members for the rehabilitation of Belgium.

The vote in effect gave chamber approval to Van Acker's plan for extraordinary powers to cope with the coal shortage and other problems.

The six deputies who voted disapproval and 17 of the 18 members who did not vote are members of the Catholic party.

FDR Reported Probing Failure Of French Relief

PARIS, Feb. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt is having an investigation made of the reputed failure of American relief for France's civilians to be distributed during the current winter as reportedly promised to the French government, reliable persons said today.

Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, special adviser to the President, has been charged with this task, according to these sources.

There is no official word whether the President will come to France himself, but many persons expect him and preparations have been made to receive him in case he does come.

No statement was available on the subject at SHAEF.

In official French quarters it was said that only one-fourth the amount of food, clothing and medical supplies promised France had been delivered.

A Nurse Draft Is Needed... Immediately

From another authoritative source, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, has come irrefutable testimony regarding the urgent need for the drafting of nurses.

"Some of our people with an eye on the Russian advance feel that the end of the war in Europe may be at hand and that there will not be many more casualties there," Patterson told the House Military Affairs Committee Wednesday. "But the view of those responsible for military operations is that the end of the fighting in Europe is not in sight and that our forces there face a great deal of hard fighting."

"We pledged, when we declared war, our entire resources," said Patterson. "We inducted millions of men and sent them overseas. We called on them to face the hardest ordeals and they are entitled to the best nursing care. . . . We cannot gamble with the lives of our soldiers."

The Army currently has slightly more than 45,000 nurses. These must tend the thousands of sick in addition to the 400,000 men who have been wounded to date. The list of wounded, incidentally, continues to grow by leaps and bounds: 13,563, 22,825 and 16,538 soldiers were wounded during the last three weeks of January.

These men—and their comrades who are daily joining the ranks of the wounded—are very much on our national conscience. They must be given prompt and adequate medical care.

A nurse draft is essential and the sooner congress enacts one the earlier this inexcusable shortage will be remedied.

Political Crises in Europe Inevitable

There should be little, if any, surprise at political upheavals in various European countries which, after years of captivity to the Germans, have at last been liberated. It would be astonishing if the reverse were true; if these peoples calmly accepted the governments-in-exile which still claim authority to rule.

Hence the importance of that clause in the Crimean conference agenda which promises that "the Big Three powers shall join in assisting any of the liberated or former Axis states of Europe in carrying out measures designed to guarantee the peoples' right to choose their own government."

This clause, if carried out in the spirit of its wording, automatically prohibits "power politics" among the smaller nations by any great nation seeking selfish advantage or opportunity to exploit its weaker neighbors.

The underground fighters, the people who have suffered all the repressions, denials and sufferings of the occupation, cannot be expected to feel in close harmony with governments which, when the Germans came, escaped to the comparative safety of London or other Allied capitals.

Nor can it be expected that peoples whose entire existence has been disrupted will be in rapport with governments of the predominantly conservative type which most of Europe's prewar governments were.

In most European countries, before the war, government chiefly represented the hereditary governing class and the large industrial and financial interests. But it was the so-called "little people," the ordinary rank and file of the workers, the small farmers, the small shopkeepers and the individual professional men who formed the bulk of the underground resistance forces. It is but natural that these "little people," cognizant of their vital role in the long fight for national liberty, should now demand greater influence in the councils of government, if they do not seek to take over the reins of authority entirely.

It is ancient custom for the large landowners, the financiers and the governing class generally, to scorn the "little people" and to attempt to damn them entirely by application of the fear-inspiring label, "Communist." On the other hand, the same "little people" would condemn all tycoons of business and of government as rapacious examples of "predatory wealth."

Of course the truth is to be found in a middle ground. Neither peasant nor financial giant is perfect, nor are the social and governmental theories of either utterly wrong.

It is in reconciling these two opposing factions that democracy finds its greatest strength. For democracy provides the proper contact between all groups and, when it nears perfection, brings about the unity and harmony that can only grow in the soil of mutual respect.

Today, as the prewar governments of Belgium, Holland, Poland and other countries totter and fall, as opponents of change all over the world bemoan such failures as harbingers of disaster and chaos, it would be well for us to remember the ultimate salvation of Europe must depend upon the people themselves if it is to last. Government by the people, of the people and for the people will, we pray, emerge out of the postwar rebirth of the nations, bringing with it new dignity, new security and new opportunity, not so much for the swollen figures of big business and professional officeholding, but for the "little people" who have been too long suppressed, too ruthlessly exploited.

A new freedom, perhaps greater even than the freedom of their soil from the feet of the Nazi invaders, is stirring in the liberated countries of Europe. We need not fear it, nor damn it as "Communistic." For, in final analysis, it is the voice of awakened peoples we are beginning to hear, and there is no greater truth than that, in the final outcome, the "voice of the people is the voice of God."

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

Home Rule

Editor Constitution: May we, the women of Georgia, have enough of your valuable space to express our thanks for the highly appreciated compliment paid us recently when your Mr. St. John reported someone as saying that only The Atlanta Constitution and the League of Women Voters wanted home rule in Georgia? We are reminded of Mr. Churchill's "What a chicken! What a neck!" And we would say, "What a leadership! What a following!" We feel signally honored to be named along with your great paper—you, old in your leadership in all crusades for the progress of our beloved state; we, young in our new but powerful following!

Lest we forget, though I do not think it possible, will you give us again the names of the members of the committee which blocked the home rule amendment! In other words, we—and I hope your great paper—wish to remember them well in the future. We, I think, can personally look after those in the two houses who let the people down.

CHRISTINE D. BROWN.
Sharon, Ga.

(Editor's Note: In all fairness to legislators who voted effective home rule out of the proposed version of the new constitution, it was leadership—rather than the will—which was lacking. Solons were told at the time that Gov. Arnall, House Speaker Harris and Senate President Gross were agreed on the emasculated home rule substitute adopted.)

The Constitution welcomes letters from its readers. They must be signed, should not exceed 200 words.

Injustice

Editor Constitution: I surely agree with that delightful Mr. Tarver when he suggests that there should be an open season for politicians! Right now it seems to be the favorite legislative sport to jump on a public servant who has rendered such valuable service to his state that he cannot be mentioned in the same breath with those who make the ridiculous charges. Of course, I refer to Dr. Abercrombie, the president of our state board of health. If he had done nothing else than place malaria under control in Georgia or knock typhus fever a death blow I would be thoroughly satisfied. But he has done so many other fine things without any fanfare of publicity that Georgia has begun to receive favorable notice from high health authorities. It doesn't take an over amount of intelligence to know that the lack of manpower has reached our state institutions. Why, it has even touched the Georgia legislature, because I notice that they have had to use little girls for pages! What is there about Alto that would draw help to it when war plants on every side are paying the wages they are? Alto has been the hobby-horse on which many a "politico" has attempted to ride to higher heights. But somehow the nag always gets winded on the last lap. I feel that a terrible injustice is being done to Dr. Abercrombie and I, as a taxpayer, am thoroughly incensed over it. "Honor to whom honor is due and let the devil take the hindmost!"

MRS. V. H. SHEARER.

Polish Problems

Editor Constitution: You recently published an article, written by Joseph L. Loewinsohn, regarding the Polish situation now existing in the exile government of Poland. I desire to congratulate Mr. Loewinsohn on his splendid coverage of the very serious condition of Polish affairs.

I am personally familiar with the ill-treatment accorded the Jewish people of Poland. This condition existed even as far back as 35 years before the present war, when Poland was under the jurisdiction of the then Czar of Russia.

I was born and reared to early manhood in Riga, Latvia, (formerly Russia), and received my education in the School of Commerce in Riga. My parents were operators of a hotel catering to the Jewish trade, and it was there I received most of my information of the cruel treatment of the Jews by the Polish people. It was at that time equally as cruel as is reported as of this date.

I really believe that for the information of our State Department, a copy of Mr. Loewinsohn's letter should be sent to our very able secretary of state, for his own information and guidance in future negotiations in handling the Polish situation.

EDWARD G. FRIEDMAN.

The Terrible Appetite of War

NORTH OF LUXEMBOURG.—(By Mail)—It was about eight degrees above zero. But for that the day was beautiful, the snow taking on the thin rays of a winter's sun and the prisms of the crystals making the landscape glow and gleam and shimmer with swiftly changing colors.

A jeep took us along the road. The road followed a river. The river ran blue-black between its banks of snow, almost disappearing at times, only to reappear and spread out across an ice-free section of its bed.

The wind likes a jeep. It likes the jeep for the gay, abandon of its rush. The wind plays with it, sweeping over its windshield, around it, across the jeep, prying into the bottom cuffs of trousers; cutting through protecting layers of wool and leather. After a while inexperienced eyes weep steady tears and the nose also takes on an aquatic quality.

Riding in a jeep at 60 miles an hour along a road which climbs steadily beside an icy river toward the hills beyond, with the temperature dropping with each mile climbed, is cruel and yet somehow magnificent. One does not have side curtains or top because, in the regions close to the front, one must keep an eye out for enemy planes.

Had it not been for the heavy traffic of war one might have said that it was absurd to think of war being near. But the ever-present, always heavy traffic of war, trucks, jeeps, tanks, guns and artillery pieces, going both ways along the road, indicated something more than peace.

War's Touch Then, too, there were the places war had touched. Along the road were destroyed vehicles and weapons. There were bombed bridges and buildings.

And villages. You have gasped at them in the newsreels. You have said, "How awful!" And "Isn't war terrible?" Seeing the villages, torn and gashed and shattered by shell fire and bomb; ripped and split by mortar and machinegun fire; opened obscenely as if a man had had all his protecting skin torn away, revealing his inside mysteries. In the midst of tremendous destruction, an apron or dress will hang serenely on a hook; a dresser may spill the contents of its drawers into the floor, or dishes may remain on a table while all about it walls and ceilings are down. On floors and in streets lie the refuse of village destruction—pots and pans and clothes and pictures, rugs and books, and "things."

You drive on by, the mind quite unable to take in the whole fact of it. Even as you see semi-dazed persons, who are so miserable nothing else matters, picking up their belongings, the mind still does not accept it.

Here the day before the soldiers hurried from building to building, from wall to wall—here tanks rumbled and here field guns thundered; here men died and were wounded.

But we went on. The front was on up ahead. The next village was one taken some hours before. About us was the material of war, moving on wheels. We were a part of it, on our jeep.

The Dead The last of the dead were being removed. This was another village where the war had come, and gone on. Snow flurries blew in, riding the wind.

Over the hills ahead there came the sound of bombs. Our own bombers were at work on the next village where the Germans were. Our artillery spoke from about us. Shells went on their way, some to the Siegfried line, some to the village ahead.

A jeep pulled up with one of the German dead in its back seat. He was a huge man, his feet twisted as they so often are in the turning fall of the body as life leaves it and it answers the eternal law of gravity. He was on his way to be checked in at the mortuary department, where his tags would be checked and his name sent via Red Cross to his German parents.

Here our jeep met with that one carrying Wilbur Forrest, of the Herald Tribune. We had been separated after leaving the city far back on the river road. We waved, and I wondered if my own face was as wind-burned as his after two and a half hours in the knife-like wind. (It was.) About us flowed the never-ceasing tide of war . . . stuff from the fields and factories of America . . . going into war on this one sector of one of many fronts.

It was about us all the while, later on, when we drove back through it. Indeed, it is always about one. The steady "whirrrr . . . whirrrr . . . whirrr" of war traffic is on all the roads of France and on most of the roads of the world. And here, mute evidence of why at least some of it is needed, are the burned-out tanks and vehicles of our and the enemy's armies. Their skeletons, new and old, are in the villages and along the roads. War is a great consumer of physical, mental and spiritual things.

"Where Is That Nurse?"

Supply of Gasoline Big Problem for Nips

We have been hearing for two or three years that the Germans should be running mighty short of gasoline for their air forces. Much of the aerial bombardment of German industry has been aimed at smashing refineries and synthetic oil plants, oil wells, etc. And, certainly, the Luftwaffe hasn't been very active of late, while we have received many stories of stalled German vehicles, stalled because their gasoline supply ran out.

Now comes a report that Japan, too, may be badly worried over finding sufficient gasoline to keep her Zeros and other planes in the air. Here is the reason:

The British naval air arm has been persistently attacking oil refineries at Palembang, Sumatra, and these attacks are estimated to have destroyed or seriously damaged the source of 75 per cent of Japan's aviation gasoline.

Now, it was from the wells and refineries at Palembang that practically all Japanese air bases outside of China and the Japanese homeland were supplied. Without that source of supply, the only way the Japanese could secure aviation gasoline is by transporting, by tanker, the raw petroleum to Japan proper, there refining it, and sending the finished product back to the place of use, by tanker.

And the shipping losses, especially in tankers, the Japanese have suffered from our air forces, submarines and the parallel British services have been so great the Nips just don't have enough remaining tankers for such service. To say nothing of the tremendous risk they run in traversing waters our fleets and the British now dominate.

Merely a Task Force There is a significant indication of the growing naval strength of the British in the Pacific war in some of the now revealed details of the attacks on Palembang.

In the first place, they were made by naval planes from a fleet which included four of the newest and biggest British aircraft carriers.

In the second place, the naval force assigned to the job, while very powerful, was a part, only, of the smaller of the two British fleets now serving in the war against the Japanese. These two fleets, which are working in complete unity with Gen. MacArthur and Adm. Nimitz, are the British Pacific fleet, commanded by Sir Bruce Fraser, and the smaller East Indies fleet, commanded by V. Adm. Sir Arthur Power.

The force which attacked Palembang consisted, in addition to the four new and great aircraft carriers, four new light cruisers, three destroyers and one of the most powerful battleships in the world, H. M. S. King George V.

The fact that this force was commanded not by the commander in chief of the East Indies fleet, but by R. Adm. Sir Philip Vian, proves it was just a task force, not the main fleet.

Which should indicate conclusively how powerful British naval and air strength has now become in the Far East.

Only Method Use of aircraft based on carriers was the only possible way in which the Sumatra oil refineries could be attacked. They were beyond the range of Allied shore-based bombers, except possibly B-29s.

But the smashing of these refineries will be of tremendous advantage in future combats between Allied carrier planes and Japanese shore-based planes. For, beyond question, the blows struck at Palembang mean that the Japanese air force will soon be badly crippled for lack of gasoline—a result which is speeded every time we bomb and destroy Nip gasoline and oil dumps on their remaining Pacific bases.

East Meets West Speaking of co-operation between the Allies, we all have long realized how the American and British air bombings of Germany have aided the Russians in their advance into the Reich.

Because our bombers have been able to sustain a terrific air bombing of German war industry, supply and transport, the Russians have been able to concentrate their air power in fighter planes which are used as tactical units with the ground troops. (Did you know the Russians put as many as 10,000 of their fighter planes in the air over only one army front in the current fighting across the Oder?)

But, with all this co-operation, it must have been a thrill for the Russians on the ground, 30-40 miles east of Berlin, when, as happened recently, they could watch the darting planes of the U S. Eighth Air Force as they bombed Berlin. When allies approaching each other on east and west get close enough to see each other, even if only by means of air attack, the day when ground forces shall meet and unite is not so very distant.

Teach, Teach And Teach

Chief Justice John Marshall was a cousin of Thomas Jefferson. His breeding, like Jefferson's, was tidewater aristocracy on one side and backwoods yeomanry on the other. But, unlike Jefferson, he despised and distrusted the common people—in part because they were illiterate, but chiefly because they lost their new sense of national unity soon after the Revolution and openly scorned and opposed all government and authority.

Jefferson trusted the people and believed they would decide questions of policy wisely and justly if they understood, but he did not expect them to understand unless they were educated. Therefore he labored long and hard to provide education for them. (He failed. Thirty years before the Civil War there still were towns of 2,500 people without a single teacher.)

Understanding based on knowledge is still the hope and safeguard of freedom. The ignorant—or the literate without understanding—are easily tricked by demagogues, for they believe any plausible half-truth that appeals to envy or fear or prejudice. And even in this literate age, people without understanding of vital public matters are numbered in the millions.

Late last summer a poll that covered the nation revealed that great numbers of men and women who seemed typical Americans could not name the candidates for vice president, had no idea what the Atlantic Charter was, and could not define the closed shop, even though members of some union.

Could such people vote with understanding?

Aside from his pleasure in knowledge, there is no urgent reason why John Doe should be able to define Tolstoy, silica, Venus de Milo and Galapagos. Millions of people live normally happy and useful lives without knowing such things. But it is vital to the preservation of freedom that all citizens understand public matters that will affect their bread and butter, their liberty, their rights and their security. Without understanding, they can be used as tools to destroy the very things they value most.

Many earnest citizens, anxious about the nation's future, are laboring to save our old-established rights and freedoms. They can do it only by educating the millions in back-of-the-wood regions and in great cities who now lack understanding.

I can't tell them how to do it, but do it they must. They must teach and teach and teach, in simple words endlessly repeated, until all citizens know and understand the truth. There is no other way.

GROWING ATLANTA
(Banks County Journal)

You will see in an article we print elsewhere in this paper that Atlanta some years ago got its water from Todd's branch. She has grown so fast that when the Chattahoochee river gets low in summer the people of the fast growing city become alarmed about water shortage. She will keep growing until she reaches the million mark and then she will grow more. No telling when she will stop. Her location gives her an advantage over all the other cities of the south.

OPA Lifts the Lid Off the Bird Cage

After considerable research and no little deliberation, the OPA this week lifted price ceilings on sleigh bells, bird cages, and aluminum horseshoes.

This will have the effect of eliminating the black market in the latter two items. There was never much bootlegging of the first. Federal men could always spot those who dealt in illicit sleigh bells by the way they went jingle-jingle about their nefarious trade.

I guess the ban on racing paved the way for ending price restrictions on aluminum horseshoes. About the only advantage of the aluminum kind to anyone but a horse is that if you are superstitious and hang one over the door and then forget and slam same, the knot knocked on your noggin will not be quite as noticeable as that caused by the conventional variety.

It is, however, with the bird-cage angle that the general public is most concerned. Where does the OPA get the idea that bird cages are unessential? Where does the OPA think one should keep one's canary, in a shoe box? And, if so, what can one tell the SPCA?

There's no way out of it. The bird-cage market will skyrocket now that ceilings have been lifted. Real estate agents and used car salesmen, their regular lines casualties of the war, will turn to the bird-cage field, offering low down payments and long, easy terms on the de luxe, gilted model from the song of the same name.

Well-heeled war workers will rush to spend the fruits of their labor and, instead of the traditional $30 silk shirts of the last war, the real badge of affluence will become the $200 (plus tax, less perch) bird cage.

I guess the OPA knows what it's doing. But it seems, to the average person, to be flirting with inflation. Doesn't it know that old saying . . . "A bird cage in hand . . ."

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Yalta Declaration Clarifies Big 3 Aims

WASHINGTON.—The Yalta declaration must have sounded like the crack of doom to the Nazis and the German military caste, those two cancerous growths on the body of the Reich which have plunged the world into its second devastating war within the same generation.

For the Nazis and Prussian militarists are at last told in no uncertain words what the term "unconditional surrender" means with respect to them.

It means, as the President, the Prime Minister and the Marshal-Premier have now told the world, that the three principal Allies, the United States, Britain and Russia, are inflexibly resolved to wipe out German militarism for all time, and to uproot Nazism forever.

To that end, we propose to bring the war criminals to justice, which means the finish of Nazism; to disband all German armed forces, to break up permanently the German general staff, which has been the source of Prussian militarism; to eliminate or control all German industries capable of arms production, and finally to exact reparations in kind for the injury done the outraged peoples of Europe.

To some these may sound like Carthaginian terms. But what else could the Nazis expect? Could anyone seriously propose that we allow the Nazis to continue in power after we have beaten Germany down, or that we leave the Prussian military machine intact?

Last War's Mistake That is the mistake we made after the last World War, when we permitted the German general staff to continue to function, and when we failed to properly supervise German industries which were capable of building a giant new war machine.

To do anything less would be equivalent to saying to the Japs, after we have defeated them: "Now here are all your ships back that we had to sink in fighting you, and here are your various naval outposts. We hope that you have learned a lesson and will be good boys in the future."

Rankling with the spirit of vengeance, the treacherous Japs, of course, would seize on the first opportunity to strike at us again.

History shows that the Germans are indoctrinated with the same malevolent spirit.

The terms imposed in the Yalta declaration are hard, but they are realistic. Nothing less would suffice, it seems.

Until civilization reaches a higher state of advancement, the only way to enforce peace is to employ force. We should have learned by now that warlike nations, just like individuals with criminal tendencies, can only be restrained through the employment of force.

Japanese, Too No doubt the same formula will be applied to Japan after we have beaten the haughty little Nipponese empire down, except that China and Korea will probably be given the major policing assignment.

As for the German people, they are told in the Crimean declaration that no one wishes to destroy them, as the Nazis have sought to have them believe. At the same time, they have been warned that the burdens of war will be made easier for them by the elimination of the Nazis.

The Nazis are the dead horse of the dilemma thus raised for the German people. They are merely flailing themselves when their propagandists send out hysterical screams over the Berlin radio, as they are now doing, that the Yalta terms mean the end of Germany.

No one can doubt from this standpoint that the latest Allied declaration may have a great psychological effect in the war. It could speed the day of the final end. Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Churchill and Marshal Stalin have given a splendid account of themselves.

". . . and the alley, that communal back thoroughfare of other years, is fasting disappearing from the American scene."—Excerpt from article, "Your Town Grows Up."

Reluctantly we fix our gaze and often wonder, in a daze,
Upon the changes time has wrought since in this rat-trap we were caught;
So many things which we revered have gone, and new ones have appeared,
That, when we stop to think, it seems we're living in a world of dreams
So strange we feel we're out of place and cast among an alien race.
Gone is the well, the kitchen pump, the wood-pile ax stuck in a stump,
The alley where the children prowled, and wooing dogs at midnight howled.
The alley! With its piles of trash, the place we dumped the clinkered ash,
The weeds, the broken bricks and bats and late-departed pussy cats;
The empty cans, the hoops of tin which rose and smote us on the shin—
'Twas here the barefoot urchin bled, his toe suspended by a thread,
Most severed by a broken glass concealed amidst the straggling grass;
And neighbors leaned upon the fence discussing many world events—
To scatter gossip, seldom good, about the little neighborhood.
The times have changed, the alley goes, the backyards flourish with the rose,
The garbage man hauls off the bats, the bottles, tins and frigid cats;
The children, singing like the larks, play in the clean and healthful parks—
But sweet and changeless is the sound of gossip that is spread around,
And though we're old, we're still alert, and revel in the alley dirt.

Look Ladies, Use Discretion

Ladies, I do not say that some of you are liable to get killed.

No, I do not say that.

I do not even say that you may be badly hurt, but what I do say is that you are building up greater hatred for your sex than is necessary when you sit there at a restaurant table and haul out your make-up kit and start fixing your make-up while hungry gentlemen are standing by waiting to leap into your chairs as soon as you hoist your persons therefrom.

I am fully aware, ladies, that the adjusting of the make-up is essential. The make-up, particulary the lip paint, comes off in the process of eating. I am aware of that because I have often noticed the drinking glasses with lipstick on them, presumably so indelibly imprinted that the best efforts of the dishwashers back stage will not remove it.

I think I should make it known to you, however, that one thing about these stained glasses has often puzzled me. It is the depth of the stains. Will one of you ladies kindly tell me why it is necessary for you to put the glass between your lovely lips half way down to bottom? I mean could you not get at the contents of the glass just as well by placing only the rim in your mouth or maybe using a straw?

I believe that if there was only about half an inch of lipstick stain on the glass the dishwashers would be more efficient about the removal. But I want you to know, girls, that I speak here only for certain captious parties who seem to view lipstick stained glasses with downright repugnance. They hold them up before the eyes of the waiter as gingerly as if they were handling unpleasant reptiles and say in tones of disguest:

"Look at that! Just look at that!"

The waiter blinks his eyes and hastily removes the offending glasses while the captious ones keep mumbling about the matter until you commence to think they are trying to make a case for District Attorney Hogan.

Personally, I do not mind the stained glasses. To tell you the truth, I am studying them with a view to writing a monograph on them with reference to their possible significance in connection with crime, they way Sherlock Holmes used to do.

I mean, if I can identify the various brands of lipstick through the stains on the glasses I might be able to work out a system of tracing the makers of the stains, thus revealing many a perpetrator of crime. It is my opinion, ladies, that those of your sex who dirty up drinking glasses the way they do would be capable of giving an honest citizen a Michael Finnoffsky.

I tried my idea out on 10 different glasses in a restaurant the other evening but was baffled by the finding that apparently the strain on each glass was made by the same brand of lipstick. It seemed to me beyond the long jab of coincidence that 10 ladies at the one table would be using the same brand of lipstick. I commented on this to the waiter.

"It is very simple," he said. "The same dame stained all 10 glasses."

"Why?" I asked.

"Well," he said, "I guess it was just because she is the kind of dame who isn't satisfied with lipstick smudging only one glass. And," he added, "a few napkins."

But as I say, ladies, I can pass the stained glasses and even the denuded pork chop bones you leave in technicolor on your plates, though I will have you know that I am hearing complaints from the hounds.

My squawk is in behalf of my nervous stomach. When I am hovering there in the background waiting to swoop down on your table and thinking of pot roast and potato pancakes and you out with your little tin boxes and begin peering into your mirrors and dabbing at your pans, my stomach practically screams out loud in frustration.

It seems to be the slow wiping of your lips, which I presume is the process of smearing the lipstick evenly, that seems to exasperate my stomach more than anything else, because I can hear it growl, "wipe, wipe, wipe." I feel, ladies, that this stomachal unrest is not good for me and I wish you would arrange to take your make-up knapsacks into the powder rooms hereafter and let me get seated more promptly.

That is all I have to say at the moment, ladies, except to remind you that in times like these with restaurant space difficult to secure and food scarce it is every man for himself and gallantry is something you will have to look for in Webster's dictionary.

The Menace Of Hopkins

I doubt that more than a few of our people appreciate the menace to our freedom, and our rights and dignity as human beings, that Harry Hopkins expresses from time to time. His haggard physique and his sickly condition are dangerous camouflage. They make him seem harmless, although Napoleon, too, was a little man and suffered from dyspepsia.

I find people disposed to regard him as only a trivial and mercenary adventurer, at worst, whose vicarious pot-boiling for the American magazine through the medium of a ghost is only the established way of exploiting the war for a profit to keep him in money to bet on the horses. Surely a horse-yard habitue must have sporting blood in his veins and, after all, the sinister proposals and even the threats which he offers under his name in print, are not binding on the Roosevelt government.

But aren't they?

Well, Hopkins is President Roosevelt's most intimate friend and chief counsellor. Thus, we owe it to ourselves to assume that, when he says in print that American students should not be allowed to waste their time studying Latin, he speaks for Roosevelt. Think what we may about the importance of Latin in education, this man here is telling us what the next generation of American citizens may not study, and with Roosevelt's silent consent and with the benefit of Roosevelt's power and prestige, consistently he could tell us what they must study. This is not just Harry Hopkins speaking. Harry Hopkins, by himself, couldn't sell his opinions or intentions to any editor.

So we have to realize that the man who tells us in a tone of command that the American people must accept as compulsory guests in the privacy and intimacy of their homes strangers who will be drafted for work, is speaking as one who knows Roosevelt's inner mind and his plans. If Roosevelt disagreed, he would throw Hopkins out as he threw out Stanley High a few years ago for writing a magazine article that displeased him.

If our homes are not our own, are we free citizens or mere subjects of a regime?

They did that in Russia, to be sure, but, in this country, the men who framed the constitution felt strongly on the issue of the compulsory billeting of strangers in their homes and the invasion of their family privacy. Remembering their recent experiences with the soldiers of the English King, they insisted on writing into the bill of rights an article forbidding it. This amendment dealt only with the billeting of soldiers, but we may allow ourselves the reasonable assumption that the only reason why they didn't forbid the compulsory billeting of civilians was that they didn't think anyone would ever have the effrontery to try it.

Hopkins and Roosevelt knows, of course, that Hitler forbade certain students arbitrarily to take up studies according to their own choice and bent. But now Hopkins not only tells us that Latin should be abolished but goes so far as to say that some students should quit high school. Well, which students, then, must quit? And who is going to pick the lucky ones who will be given the advantage of an education? And would a man capable of such a command to our people hesitate to forbid the teaching of religion? Or to require the teaching of atheism?

Consider Hopkins.

The central figure in a divorce case, unimportant by himself, the uninvited guest for years of the American people as a resident of the White House, this person, who never was elected to any public office, actually lays down these conditions of life to us. And he says, in a tone of authority, "No American, anywhere, not in the war effort, should be allowed to decide for himself how much he will give."

This means that the government, and Hopkins, will decide how much each citizen shall give. That means, in turn, the power of total confiscation of all the earned property, the insurance, the savings, the investments of all Americans.

And, he added, angrily, "it won't blow over and it does mean you."

More recently, Hopkins, now enjoying in time of war, the peak income of his life, had the assurance to state "his" position on compulsory military training for boys after the war. "His" position, we may be sure, is Roosevelt's. With his marital record, he says: "For year after year these boys will establish our manners and morals and standards of conduct."

What will those manners and morals and standards of conduct be, then, under an extension of the same regime?

The manners of the Roosevelts who throw servicemen off Army planes in favor of dogs?

The morals of people who exploit office for riches and favor, who throw high public office to political door-bell pushers as reward for their loyal party service? How else did Goebbels and Goering in Germany get their jobs under Hitler?

Don't under-rate Harry Hopkins just because he is only Harry Hopkins, a nonentity known to almost all of us only by his pictures. He speaks from the bedside of the President of the United States. Otherwise he would be still a nonentity and his declarations would never be published at all.

At Pearl Harbor, the War Seems Far, Far Away

HONOLULU.—The hour of leaving came at last.

Usually when starting overseas you don't get away on the day the transportation people originally set for you. I remember when I first started going to war, how impatient at delay I would be, and how I would fret myself into a frenzy over every day of waiting. But time changes things like that.

This time also there was a delay of a few days. Every one of them I welcomed with a big embrace. I felt like saying to it, "Ah, my love, you are the day of my dreams. You are my one more day of security—how I cherish you."

But the final day came, and at last the hour. I put on my uniform again for a long, long time, and sent my civilian clothes to a friend in Los Angeles to keep for me.

It was night when we left San Francisco. We flew in a huge four-motored land plane, operated by the Naval Air Transport Service. In the Navy they call it "NATS," as though it spelled a word.

The Army's equivalent is the ATC. I've flown on both of them so much I feel like a stockholder. They fly all over the world on clock-like schedule, over all the oceans and all the continents, carrying wartime mail and cargo and passengers.

I've flown the Atlantic four times, but this was my first flight across the Pacific. You go nonstop from California to Hawaii. It's about the same distance as crossing the continent, yet it was as easy as flying from Albuquerque to Los Angeles.

We left shortly after suppertime, and were over Honolulu a little after daylight next morning. There was simply nothing unusual at all to report about it.

Shortly after we took off I got some blankets and lay down on the floor in the rear of the plane. When I woke up it was just getting daylight, and we had only an hour to go. That's the way I like to fly an ocean.

All of us had left California in our woolen winter uniforms. But when we stepped out of the plane in Honolulu, those heavy clothes almost made us sick. By the time we got through the formalities and left the field, we were all dripping and swabbing ourselves.

In Honolulu I stayed in the home of a naval friend. The first thing we did was take a shower bath, change to light khaki clothes, and eat a plateful of beautiful yellow papaya. A wonderful tropical feeling of well-being came over you.

A naval houseboy named Flores, a native of Guam, took care of us. He washed our clothes and made our beds and fixed us fruit juice and papaya all day long.

A squat Hawaiian woman, in blue slacks and with a red bandana around her head, watered the lawn over and over and over again, very slowly.

The sun shone brightly and white clouds ran an embroidery over the ridges of the far green hills. Palm trees rustled like rain, and the deep whistles of departing ships came from the harbor below us. This, truly, was the Pacific.

The trip over had not exhausted me, but the change of climate did, and for a day I did nothing but loaf—and recover from America—and bask in being warm.

Then I started making the rounds of completing my Navy credentials, and of seeing friends. Lt. Cmdr. Max Miller and I stocked up with cigarets, against the possibility of shortages farther west. Actually you can buy cigarets (your favorite brand, too) right downtown in Honolulu.

There is no rationing of anything in Honolulu, and no blackout any longer either. Rationing doesn't exist because practically everything here is considered military, and also because shipping space from the mainland is an automatic rationer.

The great number of uniforms on the streets and the 10 o'clock curfew are the most vivid reminders of the war in Honolulu. That and the vast growth and construction that has occurred since Pearl Harbor.

Otherwise the war seems far away. The grimness of Pearl Harbor Honolulu has gone. In many respects the newcomer, beguiled by the climate and the loveliness of everything, and the softness, feels more remote from the war than he did back home.

And so I treated my little Honolulu interlude as another reprieve. I sat with old friends; I made a sentimental visit to the little tropical apartment on Waikiki where "that girl" and I lived for a winter seven years ago; I went to parties and listened almost tearfully to the sweet singing of Hawaiians.

I relished the short time here in complacency, and didn't even pretend that I was starting out to report the Pacific war. All that would come soon enough.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Some People Can't See the Forest For the Trees

Wednesday's newspapers carried the sensational headline "State Prison Farm Conditions Deplored." A committee from the house of representatives journeyed to Tattnall on a weekend inspection trip, discovered some cattle in poor condition, a dead calf, and some broken fencing. This was on the farm section of the big Tattnall prison grounds. An outcry was immediately raised by the committee, with the direct implication that the entire new prison administration is, in consequence, suspect.

It is essential to remember in any just estimate of Tattnall today that the present department of corrections inherited a widespread evil of many years' standing. Moreover, that it inherited this evil in a period of world war, when shortages of manpower and of material are acute. And that the present administration has had only a year's time to produce results.

The Tattnall of a year ago was a hotbed of vice, mismanagement and corruption. The actual physical plant was dangerously run down and dilapidated. Outrageous as it seems in a prison where dangerous criminals are confined, there were few locks in working condition. They had been destroyed by the prisoners themselves and never replaced! The prison plant itself was filthy, with unsanitary kitchens, mess halls and bunks, and broken-down plumbing.

Today in spite of hampering shortages in not only critical materials but also of workmen, the prison has been provided with uniform locks, it has been thoroughly scrubbed, painted, repaired and made sanitary.

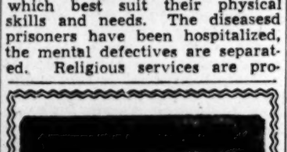

So much for the physical changes which the present department of corrections has produced. The rehabilitative changes are equally as important and equally as impressive. Inconceivable as it may seem, heretofore no attempt had been made at Tattnall to rehabilitate prisoners. No classification of the 1,250 men and women prisoners was made in order to understand their problems and try to fit them for future usefulness. Although a first essential of modern prison administration is segregation, the separattion of youthful and first offenders from hardened, vicious criminals was never even begun under the old regime. Moreover, diseased and contagious prisoners mingled with the well, the mentally deficient with the normal. No effort was made to develop a prisoner's usefulness and fit him for a job upon his release. And added to broken and missing cell locks no rapid and accurate check count system was in force.

Today a modern, rehabilitative program is well established in the prison. Men and women are carefully classified and segregated, youthful from hardened criminals, diseased from well. Insofar as the physical facilities at Tattnall allow, inmates are working at jobs which best suit their physical skills and needs. The diseasesd prisoners have been hospitalized, the mental defectives are separated. Religious services are provided by a resident chaplain, who gives his entire time to working with the inmates. Health recreation, such as baseball, horseshoe pitching, wrestling and boxing, is provided. Movies are shown on occasions, and a library has been installed for the prisoners' use. At present the majority of prisoners are working at constructive jobs, as machinists and mattress factory operators.

The house committee visiting Tattnall last week complains that more prisoners do not work on the farm, that the farm needs better management. The Department of Corrections reminds us that efficient farming by prisoners calls for a large and well-trained personnel to guard and direct such activities. But the crying need at Tattnall is personnel, and that is a need which in war times is next to impossible to meet.

The Department of Corrections is far from satisfied with conditions at Tattnall today. They believe that even more thoroughgoing reform and efficiency are necessary. But they point out that they have been in charge only a year, and that during that year the problem of adequate personnel and materials has been critical. And adequate personnel is the keystone of a successful prison program.

But in the face of all these difficulties, splendid progress has been made, progress which is already paying the citizens of Georgia tangible dividends. The League of Women Voters is proud to point out this progress. It believes the Department of Corrections has earned the support and the commendation of Georgia's people.

U. S. Diplomacy To Be More Open?

WASHINGTON.—There are encouraging signs that henceforth our diplomacy is to be more open and, as regards relations with our major Allies—Great Britain and Russia—better co-ordinated.

It is none too early.

Although Woodrow Wilson's ideal of "open covenants, openly arrived at," which he never achieved, is perhaps still beyond realization, a number of developments connected with the Crimea conference indicate progress in that direction.

President Roosevelt and his advisors seem finally to have been impressed with the ceaseless campaign in the newspapers and in congress for more information on important international matters, for bringing congress into closer touch with diplomatic negotiations and for more consultation with our Allies about the necessarily swift and unpredictable sequence of events in liberated countries.

The communique issued by the Crimea conference was full, detailed and as explicit perhaps as was possible on most issues treated there. For this helpful departure from the three previous Big Three conferences, which might almost as well as have been held on the moon, newspapermen here are giving credit to Steve Early, the President's press secretary, himself a veteran newspaperman, who was on hand to advise in its preparation.

Outside of having American newspapermen, themselves, on the spot, which Mr. Roosevelt vetoed, this was the next best alternative. Also it can be said that there will be further direct reporting, by American correspondents, in relation to the Crimea conference and its aftermath.

For another thing, James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, who sat in the conference, held a lengthy press conference promptly upon his return to Washington to enlarge on the formal announcement. This helped to satisfy the desire of American newspapermen to get such additional information from American officials without having to wait, as previously, for a report to the house of commons by Winston Churchill. Mr. Roosevelt undoubtedly is getting a little sensitive about the Washington gag that Mr. Churchill "scoops" him, which is all to the good.

The President, himself, is expected to make a report either to congress or to congressional leaders.

Perhaps nothing has been so satisfying to congress, and probably in the long run more helpful to the President, than the announcement that Republican senate and house leaders on foreign affairs are to be included in the American delegation to the United Nations conference in San Francisco, April 25, to complete the plan for an international organization.

The President obviously is trying to avoid the mistake of Woodrow Wilson in refusing to take Republican senate leaders with him to the Paris peace conference. Some have gone so far as to say that might have saved the League of Nations.

Important in co-ordinating policy of the Big Three and in avoiding misunderstandings was the decision of the Crimea conference providing for quarterly meetings of the foreign secretaries of Great Britain, Russia and the United States.

These meetings of Messrs. Eden, Molotov and Stettinius should fill the lack hitherto of machinery for interim consultation among the Big Three, graphically demonstrated a few weeks back when the Allies got all crossed up over flare-ups in liberated countries—Italy, Greece, Belgium and Poland. Congress got stirred up over here, and so did the newspapers in England and the United States, and unkind epithets were hurled back and forth across the Atlantic.

There was a danger for a time to the projected international organization, all now fortunately averted by the outcome of the Crimea conference. There was a sound, basic issue there involving democratic processes in liberated nations, which it was just as well to have exposed and discussed, but the trouble undoubtedly was magnified by the lack of co-operation.

Hereafter, the three foreign secretaries will try to reach a common decision on policy in such cases—and there will be more of them certainly. It is reported here that a sort of permanent secretariat probably will be set up to function between the regular quarterly meetings.

Big Boys Battle The battle of the behemoths is a term loosely applied to a spirited clash of big men. In the case of Chief Saunooke and Blockbuster Talun, opponents in the feature event of Paul Jones' wrestling match tonight, however, the expression fits like a prewar girdle.

Fans are familiar with the ability of both men. The 346-pound Indian, Saunooke, has been having things pretty much his own way. The only wrestler who really put him in his place in recent weeks was Bill Longson, who recently was featured in a full-page spread in The Sporting News. Longson is recognized in St. Louis and other wrestling centers as the mat champion of the world.

Now, Talun, who's six feet seven, or thereabouts, is built accordingly. Or proportionately. The pseudonym Blockbuster is appropriate. He operates like a Sherman tank in human form.

It has been many a month since Paul Jones, the popular Texan, has been able to offer a match of such appeal. Champion Longson has visited a few times, but the fans always figured that Longson, somehow, would manage to win.

The Talun-Saunooke battle of the behemoths has them guessing. But the appeal of the match goes far beyond the speculation as to who will win. The drama of two giants in action is the maget.

Jones is confident it will be one of the best matches he has arranged for the entertainment of Atlanta fans since he began the promotion of wrestling in Atlanta.

The ever-popular feminine stars, Elviry Snodgrass and June Byers and Mae Weston and Irene Jordan, also are billed on tonight's auditorium program.

It's jackpot night, really. For two other male heavyweight matches will be presented. Babe Zaharias and Al Massey meet in one attraction, Benny Bennicasa and Cowboy Luttrell in the other.

Zipp for J. Edgar Zipp Newman, who is to be honored by Birmingham sportsmen at a dinner next week, is another southern sports editor who heartily favors the appointment of J. Edgar Hoover, the head G-Man, as commissioner of baseball.

The veteran sports editor of the Birmingham News writes—

"If the major leagues really want to make a move that would appeal to the youngsters, they will name J. Edgar Hoover commissioner of baseball. Hoover would command the respect of all law-abiding citizens and scare the gamblers away from the parks."

Hoover's personal reaction to all the fine things said in support of him as baseball chieftain naturally is one of gratification. But, as mentioned in a column yesterday, the old men of baseball have made certain that no man they can't control will get the job of successor to Landis.

They have stripped the gears of the next commissioner. The Landis successor can run only if the magnates give him a push.

Furthermore, they have lowered the salary so as to make the job less attractive to an important figure.

If other businesses were run like baseball, this country would retrogress to a point of economic ruin.

The product of baseball gets the worst advertising of any going product in the world. And yet it still receives the support of the public.

Suppose a great department store advertised:

"Sale on women's stockings. But they aren't guaranteed. It wouldn't surprise us if they show runs after one wearing."

The store would hardly be filled with buyers.

Baseball's store window is full of deceit, pettiness, neglect and downright selfishness. It is there for all to see.

But the game itself is so solid, so desired by the public, that patronage increases even in the worst times. What good could be accomplished by a real job of selling!

Living Memorial St. Petersburg, Fla., popularly known as a spot where elderly folks go to sit in the sun, is a progressive sports town.

In fact, St. Pete is going to build a baseball park that will cost $100,000 after the war. It has been suggested by Pete Norton, Tampa Tribune sports editor, that it be dedicated as a living memorial to the St. Petersburg boys of World War II.

From time to time, it has been suggested by this columnist that it would be well for Atlanta to build a living memorial in the form of a municipal stadium—a place where the high school boys and girls could hold athletic events.

A municipal stadium also could be used to great advantage by adult athletic teams. But principally our thought was to provide a place for the high school children.

As pointed out before, Atlanta is one of few major cities not having a municipal stadium. We hate to hear the hollow sound of drums year after year. But we continue to hope that one day some public spirited citizens will get together and arrange plans for a municipal stadium.

Such a plan is not practical now. But there is no time like the present to lay the groundwork.

There have been meetings to consider a municipal stadium before. But nothing has ever come of any of it. The city probably doesn't have the funds to expend. But, certainly, there is a way.

If only more people had the will.

Lanier Clips Smithies; Nolan Scores 32 Points

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Elongated Jim (Spider) Nolan, the human skyscraper, used his extreme height to pour 32 points through the hoops, 28 of them in the last half, to spark Lanier to a 59-to-45 triumph over Tech High on the Grady court last night, and put Tom Porter's Poets from Macon in a tie with Jordan for the Big Seven League lead. Both leaders have only one game left to play.

In a preliminary skirmish Boys' High tuned up for their tiff with Tech High tonight by downing the Georgia Tech V-12s, 44 to 33. Tommy Touchstone, playing only half the game, led the scorers with 13 points. Jack Griffin was next with 10. Ray Enders led the Techmen with eight.

After Tech High took an 8-2 lead at the outset Lanier got hot, raced to the front and stayed there throughout, although they were never able to build up a commanding lead. The six foot seven inch Nolan, of course, was the big star for the smooth working Macon quint. Red Burgamy was great on defense and had 13 points, two more than Roddenbery.

Lefty Bob Mitchell, with 14 tallies; Bob Kirk, with 12, and Mack Couch, with 10, were the big guns for the Fightin' Smithies.

DeKalb Tourney Gets Underway

By RUSSELL MUSGRAVE

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga., Feb. 15.—Tucker and Lithonia girls and Clarkston boys won their opening games in the annual DeKalb county basketball tournament, which opened here last night.

There was a capacity crowd of about 1,500 spectators on hand for the opening games.

Tucker's girls, led by Cain, won the first game of the tournament by beating Clarkston, 32 to 13. Cain had 19 points. Clarkston got only two field goals, so well did the Tucker guards play defensively.

In the second game, Center Travis shot 23 points as Clarkston beat Avondale, 45 to 29.

Ethel Abbott's 28 points were more than the entire Southeast DeKalb team made as Lithonia walked away with a 39-to-25 decision. Sprayberry was high for the losers with 10.

Southwest DeKalb boys defeated Lithonia, 33 to 26, in the final game of the opening night's program.

Tide Beats Georgia in Overtime

Two Extra Periods Needed To Win 60-59 Decision

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 15.—It took the University of Alabama two overtime periods to whip the Georgia basketball team by a single point here tonight, 60 to 59.

The game was the most exciting of the season, with two unusual situations arising. Alabama's Robertson was allowed to play about five minutes after committing his fifth foul while scorers of the two schools argued whether he had four or five fouls against him. The second came about just as the game ended when it was ruled that a foul against Georgia had been called by the referee after the timers horn had blown.

Neither team, believe-it-or-not, ever held more than a two-point advantage.

At the end of the game the score was 46-46, at the end of the first overtime period it was 52-52. The deciding point in the second extra period came on a foul goal by "Chuck" Teubert, awarded after Georgia took too many times out. At halftime the count was knotted, 26 to 26.

Ralph Jones and "Shorty" Maddox, the rival centers, shared scoring honors with 21 points each. Teubert, got 20 points, the same as he did against Georgia Tech the night before, and Ronald Wells, little Georgia guard, had 19.

Druid Hills, Lithonia, Tucker and Decatur are seeded and prime favorites to meet in Thursday's semifinals. Although both Druid Hills and Lithonia are undefeated in their respective leagues. Several of their games were won on last-minute desperation field goals. Washington Seminary won last year's tournament but declined to enter this year.

With the N. G. I. C. boys' tournament being played out College Park way the same week, gasless and partisan fans within hailing distance of the Decatur auditorium will pack the house before game time each night to see both beauty on parade and the best girls' teams in Georgia in action.

Tech Trackmen 4th in N. C. Meet

Georgia Tech won fourth place in the North Carolina Preflight indoor track meet held at Chapel Hill last Saturday. Each year Tech carries a number of men up just to be represented in the meet and carried only nine men this year.

Bob Seligman won the shot-put with a toss of 46 feet, 5 inches, which was within just a few inches of the met record. Allen Brown, freshman quarter-miler, ran a close second to Beetham, from Carolina Preflight. Beetham won the Melrose games in Madison Square Garden and was voted the outstanding athlete of the games.

Don Cady won fourth place in the quarter-mile. Tom Carpenter placed third in the high jump and the broad jump. Bill Donehue placed third in the pole vault and Joe Richardson placed fourth in the 60-yard dash.

Donaldson Records Ace at Druid Hills

Rid of the duties of club president, Dowse Donaldson turned in a hole-in-one yesterday afternoon on No. 17 hole at Druid Hills Golf Club.

Donaldson, president of the club in 1944, was playing with A. A. Orrender, W. D. P. McDowell and C. R. Gholson. He used a No. 6 iron for his ace on the par 3, 165-yard hole.

Coach Alex Lauded By Legislature

The Georgia house of representatives yesterday commended Georgia Tech's famous William T. Alexander, who recently retired as head coach at Tech after 25 years of service, for "his courage, forthrightness and high sense of honor."

In a resolution adopted by unanimous action the house said of Coach Alexander:

"Through his unmatched knowledge of the game, his great skill as a teacher, and his extraordinary ability as a wise and honest leader of men, he has done a great service for the Georgia School of Technology and for the state of Georgia, not merely in the quality of the remarkable teams which he has trained but rather in the emphasis of those standards of right living and good character which he has impressed upon hundreds of young men."

Ellis To Coach Jacket Line

Georgia Tech's football coaching staff has been completed by Head Coach Bobby Dodd, who recently was elevated to that post after Coach W. A. Alexander resigned.

The last addition was that of Raymond Ellis, of Madisonville, Ky., as line coach. Ellis' appointment followed that of Dwight Keith as backfield coach, Keith's appointment being announced in yesterday's Constitution.

Coach Ellis is a graduate of the University of Kentucky, having played guard there while Dodd was at Tennessee. For the past 18 years Ellis has been athletic director and coach at Madisonville High, where his teams have been outstanding.

For the past seven years the new Tech line coach served as director of St. John's Boys' Camp in Minnesota and has had the opportunity of studying the "T" formation used by the Chicago Bears as they trained nearby. He will report to Georgia Tech around April 1 in time to take part in the spring drills at The Flats.

Tech definitely will use the "T" formation next fall, so the addition of Ellis to the coaching staff assures Coach Dodd of an assistant who is thoroughly familiar with this intricate formation.

Naval Air Station Wins Two Games

The Atlanta Naval Air Station took a double-header basketball game from the Gainesville Naval Air Technical Center last night at the local base, the boys winning 39 to 31 and the Atlanta WAVES by a score of 27 to 24.

Deyoe, with 16 points, paced the Naval Air Station quintet. White, with 11, was high for the losers.

Smithies, Purples To Clash Tonight

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Tech High and Boys' High, either one of which might possibly bring the G. I. A. A. basketball championship back from the tournament in Columbus next week, will all but put the lid on the Big Seven League season when they clash before what is expected to be a capacity crowd at 8 o'clock tonight at Henry Grady court.

The B teams of the same two schools will battle it out in a preliminary set for 7 p. m.

While Shorty Doyal's Purple Hurricane has just a mite of a chance eventually to capture the Big Seven League crown, that chance is so remote it is almost negligible. Each Boys' High-Tech game is a championship event in itself to the players of the two schools, however, and a furious engagement is a certainty. Shorty Doyal's charges won the first meeting between the two this year, but since then O. V. Bruner's Village Smithies have improved tremendously, once winning a 20-point victory over Jordan, a club that humbled the Purples twice.

Meanwhile Tom Porter's Lanier Poets, who may be the eventual Big Seven champs, and who will be one of the hot tournament favorites next week, will bid Atlanta good bye for the year in a tiff with Father McDonald's Marist quintet, which Monday night upset Tech High on the Fulton court, where the Lanier tilt will be played at 8 p. m. today.

The big games in the N. G. I. C. tonight won't have any bearing on the championship since both Druid Hills and Decatur are down in the standings this season, but a battle between these traditional foes always is a real scrap. The girls' team will take the floor at Druid Hills at 7:30, with the boys following an hour later.

The Fulton High boys and girls will journey to the College Park court for a double-header with the home clubs there, with the lassies to start the ball hoopward at 7:30. The Hapeville lads and lassies will play host to the Forest Park teams at the same hour on the Russell hardwood. The B teams of Commercial and West Fulton will vie at 7:30 on the West Fulton court with the varsity tilt an hour later. Commercial still must beat the Owls and Russell next week to clinch the conference league title.

Closed Fish Season in Georgia Ends

The Georgia Game and Fish Commission has voted to abolish the closed season on fresh water fishing from April 15 to June 1, Chairman Hugh Hill announced yesterday following a meeting of the commission.

This action will become effective 30 days after the regulation is posted at the 159 county courthouses as required by law. The 12-months' open season will apply to pole and line and rod and reel fishing for the years 1945 and 1946 under the decision of the commission, but will not apply to fishing in cold water streams stocked with, or inhabited by, brook, rainbow and brown trout.

The commission's action came after a study of the results of extensive surveys and research by both federal and state agencies since creation of the commission in 1943, according to Chairman Hill. The commission last spring considered abolishment of the closed season, but withheld a final decision until yesterday.

Findings of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the TVA, and Drs. H. S. Swingle and E. V. Smith of Alabama Polytechnic Institute were reviewed by members of the commission before the decision was reached. Views and opinions of fishermen and conservationists from over the state were also taken into consideration.

"The commission feels that a 12-months' open season actually will improve fishing conditions in both ponds and streams and that it will provide the maximum amount of sport and recreation for the greatest number of persons," Chairman Hill pointed out.

Craig Fields' Open Spot In AAU Tourney Filled

By "SON" MAXWELL.

The first defection in the ranks of teams entered in the Southeastern AAU basketball tournament at Sports Arena this weekend came yesterday when the Craig Field Fliers withdrew from the men's division.

However, the vacant spot in the bracket of 16 teams was filled immediately when the Tennessee Eastmans from Kingsport, Tenn., accepted the place. The change did not lower the tournament caliber, either, for the Eastmans have won 23 games out of 24, two of their victories being at the expense of William and Mary College, a better than average collegiate quintet.

The dark horse of the men's tournament may well be the Maxwell Field Fliers, for some of the leading players from other air force teams in the southeast have been added to the Maxwell Field team. Three of these are Schneider, Benson and Colberg, the three top scorers of the Cochran Field team that won the Georgia tournament here last year.

The men's division is much more complicated than the women's although the national AAU champs, the Vultees, may not have as easy a march to the title as had been anticipated. The Vultees, naturally, are heavy pretournament favorites among the women's teams, but they face a tough assignment in their opening game Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

The Vultees are scheduled against the Maxwell Field lassies, and the Alabama team has two former All-Americans in its lineup in Ann Lineback and Jennie Sherill, and they may make things quite interesting for Alline Banks Pate & Co. before the evening is over.

Blockbuster And Saunooke Clash Tonight

Blockbuster Talun, 320-pound superheavyweight from Poland, and Big Chief Saunooke, 346-pound Indian star of Cherokee, N. C., will get together tonight at the city auditorium to see who will be the head man among the heavyweight grapplers in this section of the country.

Talun has bounced into the heavyweight mat limelight overnight. He creates a mild sensation wherever he appears with his tremendous size and strength. He stands 6 feet 10 and has a pair of hands on him as big as hams. When he enters the ring, he steps over the ropes rather than crawl through them as the ordinary man is forced to do.

Saunooke is no weakling himself. In fact, he is just about as strong as any man to appear here in the last two years with the exception of Talun.

The supporting card will also feature eight big time performers. Cowboy Luttrell and Ben Bennicasa open the program at 8:30 and will be followed in order by Mae Weston versus Irene Jordan, Elviry Snodgrass versus June Byers, and Al Massey versus Babe Zaharias.

Swimming Meet Ends in Deadlock

Druid Hills and the Atlanta Swimming Association fought to a 32-to-32 deadlock in a swimming meet held at Emory University's pool yesterday afternoon.

Outstanding performance of the meet was Lee Heist's time in the 220-yard free style. The Druid Hills star did the distance in 2 minutes, 46.6 seconds. The only double winner was Ensign Conklin, of the association, who took both the 50-yard free style and the 100-yard breast stroke.

Big 10 Postpones Selection of Czar

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Big Ten athletic directors today recommended increased authority and a $5,000 annual salary hike for a new athletic commissioner, but deferred action upon selection of a successor to the late Maj. John L. Griffith until March 8.

After a four-hour session, the directors reported they had reached agreement on a new code for the commissioner's office, but emphasized it still must be approved by the conference faculty committee.

Junior Badminton Tourney Saturday

7 Beer Places In DeKalb To Lose Licenses

Business licenses of seven of nine beer and wine establishments located in that portion of Atlanta lying in DeKalb county will not be renewed when they expire June 30, city council's police committee has decided.

The committee action followed appearance of a delegation last night from the DeKalb County Temperance League demanding that sales of beer and wine be discontinued in DeKalb areas of Atlanta.

It referred the two remaining locations, lying in the sixth ward, to the delegation from that ward for a recommendation before final disposition.

MORE CANCELLATIONS LOOM

It also appeared to be the sentiment of committee members to withhold business operating licenses for approximately 100 of Atlanta's 450 wine and beer spots when they expire June 30 because they violate state laws regarding proximity to schools or churches. The state laws bar such places within 600 feet of school or college grounds and 300 feet from churches.

A law enforcement-minded police committee also took the following other actions in a new move to curb lawlessness:

1. Instructed Mayor Hartsfield to contact judges of the superior courts to urge the importance of tightening up on bonds for known criminals and to expedite trials. The action was taken after a long discussion of reported criminal acts by men who secured their release from custody by making bonds.

TIGHTEN CURFEW

2. Ordered Police Chief Hornsby to notify all places selling beer and wine they must close by midnight, and clear their premises of patrons as rapidly as possible after that time. The latter decision came after police committee members were informed that some places close their doors but allow those already inside to remain for hours afterwards.

Committee members voted unanimously not to recommend renewal of beer and wine licenses of the following places in the DeKalb area of Atlanta:

740 Clifton road, N. E.; 1979 and 2271 College avenue, N. E.; 373 Flat Shoals avenue, S. E.; 1272 Glenwood avenue, S. E.; 1281 La-France street, N. E., and 2001 Oakview road, S. E.

The sixth ward delegation, consisting of Alderman Raleigh Drennon and Councilmen Ralph Huie and Howard Haire, will decide whether or not the operating permits for the Druid Hills Golf Club, 287 Candler road, N. E., and a store located at Little Five Points, 401 Moreland avenue, N. E., shall be renewed.

In voting to outlaw the seven places in accordance with the demand of the temperance group, committee members said they felt that the sentiment of the community opposes such operations in preponderantly residential areas.

J. J. Masters, investigator for the police committee, is checking all beer and wine vending places as to their legality in the light of state regulations. Masters said he has not completed his investigations, but estimated that more than one-fourth of the 450 dealers now licensed would fall afoul of the state requirements.

Hit by Train, Woman Dies

Mrs. John H. Meeks, 22, of 108 Greenwood place, Decatur, was instantly killed last night when she was struck by a Georgia railroad train, according to a report made by Policemen J. B. Richards and W. C. Argo, of Decatur.

According to the police, Mrs. Meeks had some disagreement with her husband. As a result, they say she ran out of her house and rushed to the track at the Greenwood stop on College street, Decatur, and jumped in front of the train. The husband, they say, saw her jump.

The body is at the funeral home of A. S. Turner & Sons.

AFL Negotiations With Lewis Fail; Door Left Ajar

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor executive council gloomily reported tonight that negotiations with John L. Lewis for reaffiliation of the United Mine Workers had failed.

The council adjourned its midwinter session leaving the door only slightly ajar for eventual return of Lewis to the AFL. The miners' leader left the federation finally and officially in 1938.

President William Green made the announcement on the Lewis negotiations, which have featured the 10-day Miami sessions, declaring that "we have failed to bring about a satisfactory understanding."

Green explained the barrier was a last moment condition for the reaffiliation, imposed by Lewis in a letter to Green last Sunday, that the miners should be represented on the council as a condition to their return.

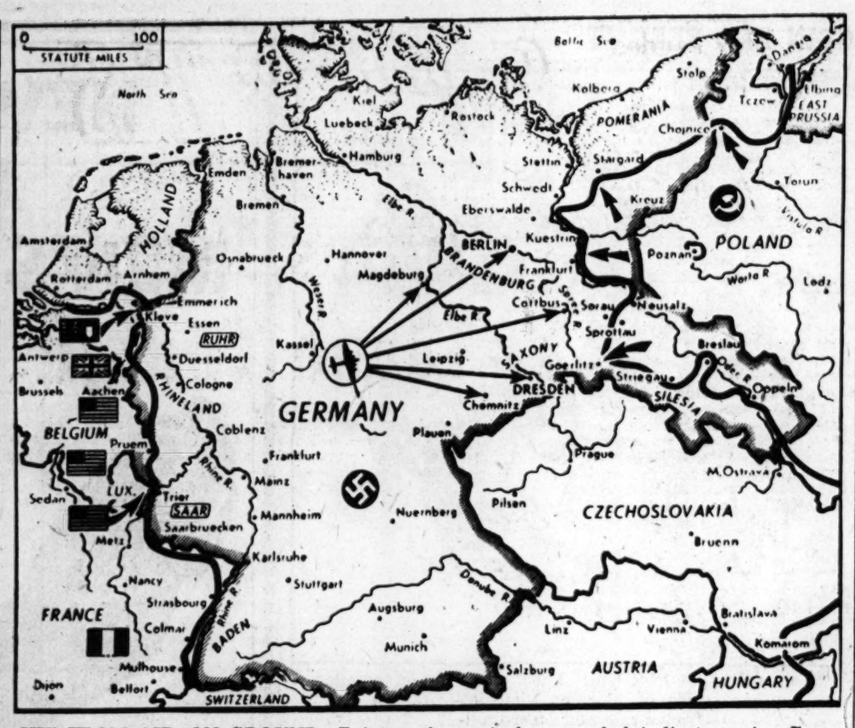

Green said the council, in his opinion, had "done everything it can" to promote the readmission. He said Lewis, by withdrawing the stipulation, could renew the negotiations.

Lewis' proposition conflicted with the AFL's laws, Green said, adding that the miners' chief, who formerly held a seat on the council, was well aware of that.

HIT FROM AIR, ON GROUND—Pointers from airplane symbol indicate major German cities blasted yesterday by American heavy bombers. Arrows show drives against Germany's western and eastern fronts. tacks paving the way for the Soviet ground drive, and that "tens of thousands" of persons had been killed there. The report came from the Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Dagens Nyheter.

The fall of the three "important junctions of communications and mighty strongpoints of German defenses" southeast of Berlin was aided by a U. S. heavy bomber attack on Cottbus, strategic rail junction only 27 miles west of captured Sommerfeld.

In another striking example of close liaison between the American airmen and Russian ground forces nearly 500 U. S. bombers hurled some 1,500 tons of explosives on Cottbus, a big 12-way junction clogged with German troops and supply traffic rushed up in an effort to stop the Russians.

Cottbus controls a maze of arteries leading from Berlin to the Oder, Dresden and to German troops based in Czechoslovakia.

Dresden also was attacked for the fourth time since the great Allied air assault began Tuesday night. Two hundred American heavyweights brought to 4,000 tons the weight of explosives dropped on that Saxon citadel.

The Soviet communique said that the Russians had swept up 150 places in German Silesia and Berlin's home province of Brandenburg. These included Naumburg, on the broken Bober river defense line 12 miles east of Sommerfeld, and Schweinitz, five miles southwest of Gruenberg.

Northwest of Budapest, captured Hungarian capital, other Soviet forces completed the destruction of isolated enemy groups which had broken out of the western part of the city, and captured 6,650 more prisoners, including three generals, the Bulletin said.

This raised to nearly 130,000 the number of captives taken in the long siege of Budapest, and in addition perhaps 50,000 Germans and Hungarians were slain in the period since Dec. 27, when the Russians first broke into Budapest's streets.

In western Poland the Russians had captured most of Poznan, last big Polish city still in German hands, the communique said.

Konev's northern wing w.s only 28 miles southeast of Fuerstenberg, one of Berlin's outer fortresses already under assault by Marshal Zhukov's First White Russian Army.

Berlin said Konev's armored spearheads already had reached Forst, another key road center on the west bank of the Neisse river 14 miles west of captured Sommerfeld, and had cut the Berlin-Breslau superhighway on both sides of that town. Forst is only 12 miles from Cottbus, shattered by the new American aerial blow.

The Russians, in taking Gruenberg and the other two strongholds, had destroyed a German bridgehead in a bend of the Oder river southeast of Fuerstenberg, and had broken the entire German Oder river defense line extending through Silesia almost to the Czechoslovak border.

In another order of the day Stalin announced the fall of the Polish corridor stronghold of Chojnice, on the Berlin-Danzig railway and highway 60 miles southwest of Danzig city.

aerial activity all along the front after Wednesday's tremendous aerial mauling of the enemy. Rail lines feeding the front were cut in 139 places on both sides of the Rhine on Wednesday and airmen believed the battle area now was isolated from rail supply and reinforcement.

Front dispatches described Field Marshal Montgomery's front as a saw-toothed knife slicing into the Rhineland from Emmerich on the Rhine to Gennep on the Maas (Meuse). The main teeth of the saw are biting down the highways toward Goch, Uedem and Calcar.

The drive on Calcar apparently was slowed by a band of German holdouts in the Reich forest to the rear, where enemy troops were hanging grimly to a mile-square forested area despite intense Allied artillery and air bombardment.

Comparative quiet reigned along the rest of the western front. Allied supreme headquarters reported the final capture of Oberhoffen, four miles southeast of Haguenau, after two weeks of vicious battling in the streets, and Third Army troops in the Echternach bridgehead gained a half mile in rough terrain.

tical planes based on the continent, which made 3,800 sorties against Nazi troops and communications along the western front yesterday and again struck in strength today. Also, U. S. heavy bombers from Italy flew into Austria for the third straight day and attacked communications in the Vienna area, aiming by instrument through heavy cloud layers.

While the heavy fleet from Britain was heading back home after its blasts at Cottbus, Dresden and Madgeburg, the German radio warned that a bomber formation was approaching from the west and another from the south.

While the Nazis told of great air battles raging throughout Germany, there was no other indication that the American fleet had run into trouble.

dirtied some dishes to indicate they had eaten Sunday dinner at home on Jan. 28. It was on Saturday night, Jan. 27, that she died.

AMONG RICHMOND ELITE

So far as friends knew, there had never been any trouble or disagreement between the two. Mrs. Epes, 26, was a graduate of William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., and they had married in 1940 after each had finished school.

Until he was inducted, they had lived at Richmond, where young Epes had been associated in business with his father, president of the Epes-Fitzgerald Paper Company. His parents were well-to-do and socially prominent. At Richmond University he had been an outstanding student on the dean's list and had taken part in intramural athletics and had been a member of several clubs and societies.

Mrs. Epes was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Williams, of Jacksonville, Fla.

When Epes went into the army in 1943, his wife had gone to Jacksonville where she was teaching school. She took a leave of absence last Christmas to come here and live with her husband until he left for overseas.

Body of Mrs. Epes Due Today; Native Atlantan

Before her marriage about four years ago, Mrs. Epes was Mary Lee Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Williams, now residing in Jacksonville, Fla. She was born in Atlanta and graduated from the North Fulton High school.

It was while in William and Mary College that she met Lt. Epes, marrying him shortly after graduation.

She is the niece of Mrs. Robert E. Hodgson, of 1166 Ovford road, northeast.

The body is expected to arrive here today, and funeral plans will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Woodward Commended

R. Adm. Clark H. Woodward, of Atlanta, has been awarded a letter of commendation for his services as director of the Navy's exhibition in connection with the sixth war loan drive held in Chicago, the Navy has announced. R. Adm. Woodward's permanent address is 2221 Wesley avenue, northwest.

B-29 Crashes; Five Missing

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A B-29 Superfortress, attempting to make an emergency landing at LaGuardia airport, crashed and burned spectacularly in Flushing bay today.

Five survivors were rescued from the flaming waters by coast guard, police and airlines crash boats which fought through the fire and heavy smoke to the wreckage.

More than three hours after the accident, the most disastrous at the airport since the field opened in 1939, five crew members were announced officially as missing. Of the survivors four were said to be in good condition, with the fifth suffering from shock.

Eye-witnesses said the big bomber appparently overshot the runway as it attempted to land. The pilot nosed the Superfortress up to circle the field again, but as it turned the left wing dipped. The ship lost altitude, struck the water, somersaulted and crashed, immediately bursting into flames.

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in The Constitution Want Ads.

YWCA Teams Meet Today for Report Luncheon

Realizing that the $500,000 building fund campaign for the Atlanta Young Women's Christian Association has entered the crucial stage, members of the general and men's teams will meet at noon today at the YWCA for their fourth report luncheon.

With the public subscription campaign 10 days old, only one division in the general teams and none in the men's teams section has surpassed its goal. The general teams' division going over the top is led by Mrs. H. C. Phipps, with 136 per cent of its goal.

Other general teams divisions with high marks are Mrs. Bond Almand's division with 86 per cent and that led by Mrs. Roy G. Booker with 72 per cent. Leading men's teams divisions are that led by George Bourke with 68 per cent and that by Homer Thompson with 63 per cent.

"The next few days will decide the success or failure of the YWCA fund-raising campaign," said Mrs. Granger Hansell, president of the board of directors of the YWCA. "The volunteer campaigners must work with the knowledge that they hold the outcome in their hands. The public also must realize that we can not afford the defeat of a civic project so vital to Atlanta as the YWCA campaign."

Among the larger gifts reported are those of an Atlantan who has increased his subscription from $1,000 to $1,500; another $500 from a chain store, and $1,000 subscription from a radio station.

Dr. Lester Rumble, of St. Mark's Methodist church, will pronounce the invocation and Mrs. Mary Kate Duskin, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., will give a short talk on "The C-in the YWCA" at the report luncheon.

At 1:30 p. m. today leaders and captains of the special, pattern and campaign steering committees will hold a meeting at the YWCA.

At 6 p. m. the girls' activities section will hold a report luncheon at the YWCA. At 7:30 members of the Phyllis Wheatley Branch (Negro) will hear reports at the Hotel Savoy.

Montgomery Tornado Leaves 1,200 Homeless

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 15. (AP)—At least 234 buildings were destroyed and 358 others damaged by the tornado which struck Montgomery Monday night and an estimated 1,200 persons were left homeless, the Red Cross reported today.

M. A. L. Gardner, national building adviser for the Red Cross, said a survey showed 106 dwellings and 128 other buildings, including a church and a school, were demolished by the wind.

Gardner began setting up machinery to rebuild the wrecked structures and said priorities for essential materials would be arranged through his organization.

Cram Cites Need Of Expansion In State Industry

If Georgia is to resume her place as the nation's Empire State, a title once earned for her by agriculture, she must expand and develop her industries, William C. Cram Jr., director of the industry panel of the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board, told Atlanta Jaycees yesterday.

Georgia's resources once were the best on the face of the earth, Cram pointed out, but past generations have spent them "like a sailor on a three-day leave." In addition to its losses due to eroded topsoil and burned forests, Georgia is losing an average of 30,000 young people to other states each year.

"Even now it's easier to make a dollar in the north than in the south," Cram asserted. "That is a situation we must change, if we are to make Georgia the Empire State she used to be."

Cram pointed out that a million dollars' worth of chicken feed was imported into Gainesville last year. It would be unnecessary to bring in corn from other states to be used as chicken feed, he said, if sweet potatoes grown in south Georgia were dehydrated and mixed with small grains grown in north Georgia.

The industry panel is now compiling an industrial inventory of Georgia which will be the most complete survey of its kind in any southeastern state, Cram said.

BACKSTAGE
By Paul Jones

I have never seen a more beautiful, sincere and heart-warming story on the screen than the one I saw yesterday at Loew's Grand. I refer to "National Velvet," M-G-M's appealing story of a race horse and the pretty little girl who trains him to be a champion.

"National Velvet" is not just the story of a horse, though. Neither does it concern itself entirely with the little girl's affection for the animal. It's vivid dramatic presentation, broad in scope, which reaches into the home of the Brown's—the little girl's family—and it touches on the trials and tribulations experienced by a former jockey, who stops off at the Brown home for the night, but finds himself taken into the family by the loving Browns before he can utter a word of protest.

Filmed in full color against a background similar to the English countryside, "National Velvet" contains several hundred feet of the most beautiful photography my eyes have ever feasted upon. It combines this beautiful color with pathos, comedy and a young romance which never blossoms, but is kept in suspense, probably for a sequel.

Charming Actress

Charming little Elizabeth Taylor justifies the confidence placed in her by M. G. M. by completely dominating a play which will be counted among the year's best. The sweet melody to her voice and her expressive eyes haven't been matched by any other kid star of our time. Mickey Rooney gives one of the finest performances of his career. Those who have seen him in the brat roles and in the Hardy series, won't recognize him as the same actor.

In giving credit to the outstanding players don't count out Donald Crisp, who provides many good laughs in the role of the father, and Ann Revere, who is equally good in the part of Elizabeth's mother.

"National Velvet" combines the best qualities of "Lassie" and "Home In Indiana," and adds a dramatic punch and a whirlwind finish will keep you glued to your seat throughout. Don't miss it.

Diversion on Ice

Filled with a series of diverting skating sequences and several good musical numbers, "Lake Placid Serenade," Republic's musical offering which has Vera Hruba Ralston in the feminine lead, opened a week's engagement at the Paramount yesterday.

Miss Ralston lives up to her reputation as a figure skater of much note, but the story is poorly scripted and disappointing.

Ray Noble and his orchestra and Harry Owens' Royal Hawaiian band supply the music for the ice fantasies including cellophane-skirted hula girls. Roy Rogers' appearance in this film is not up to his stint in "Hollywood Canteen" in which he introduced the hit tune, "Don't Fence Me In." Eugene Palette, Vera Vague and Robert Livingston are others in the cast.

Miss Ralston's skating numbers are beautifully executed and enthusiasts of ice entertainment are likely to find a good evening's entertainment.

"For Whom the Bell Tolls," playing at the Fox, was reviewed when it was road-showed here last year. . . "To Have and Have Not," "Tonight and Every Night" and "Hollywood Canteen" likewise have been viewed on other occasions . . . .

Atlanta Bank Clearings

Bank Clearings yesterday totaled $27,300,000 as compared with $28,600,000 for the corresponding day last year, according to the Atlanta Clearing House Association.

Tax Office to Begin Monday Night Hours

War workers and others, whose employment hours prevent them from filing their 1945 city tax returns during regular hours, will get a break through announcement of city tax assessors that windows will be open at the city hall each Monday night from now until March 12, the last Monday before the closing of books on March 15.

Realizing that many persons should be given an opportunity to make their returns after the regular 5 p. m. closing time, city tax assessors yesterday announced that the Monday night opening schedule will begin next Monday. City tax offices are located on the first floor of the city hall.

LOUELLA PARSONS REPORTS:

Movie, 'Strange Adventure,' Stars Gable and Garson

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15.—(INS) Greer Garson said she is perfectly willing to have a small part in Clark Gable's next picture, "The Strange Adventure." Yes, Greer is going to have the top femme role in the Gable picture. 'I feel," she said, "that Clark, after his magnificent job overseas, deserves the big part, and I feel, like any girl, grateful to be in his film." That's the way most producers hope their stars will feel, but I don't know if I ever heard one willing to play second fiddle in any film, until Greer announced herself. Victor Fleming is directing and Sam Zimbalist is producing.

That's a combination I'll pay my money to see—Gable and Garson!

An ambitious plan is under way now to make a film cavalcade, or perhaps I should say a history of the Marines. "Once a Marine," by former War Correspondent Peter O'Crotty, will be acted by an almost 100 per cent personnel of Marines, either those who are now in service, or who have been honorably discharged. The proceeds will be turned over to the Marine Corps League for the Rehabilitation of Marines. Commandant Ralph Davis and Col. Frank Halford are working on the idea. Louis Hayward, Glenn Ford and others will be sought. If possible, Lt Tyrone Power will be borrowed for a few weeks—providing, of course, he has not left for overseas.

If anything can bring Errol Flynn back to Hollywood it will be his own production, "The Frontiersman," which he will coproduce with Mark Hellinger. According to the Flynn contract, he has one picture to produce a year. Last year it was "That Certain Glory." This year it's Alan Lemay's original, "The Frontiersman," laid in 1859. Raoul Walsh, who directs Flynn in and out of uniform, will direct him again and probably will help to see he doesn't talk too much. There's a western girl's role being discussed. Lauren Bacall has been mentioned, also Ann Sheridan. Everyone is wondering just how versatile the Bacall girl is, or whether she is limited to the sultry type she did so well in "To Have and Have Not."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Mary Foy, sister of the famous Foys, Charlie, Eddie and Bryan, is expected to marry Bud Dewey any day. He's homeafter a year spent overseas; Marie McDonald had the famous Sen. Alben Barkley escort her through the senate in Washington. Marie hails from his home state of Kentucky; Billy Wilder is suffering from sciatica; Van Johnson, the bobby sockers who haunt the M.-G.-M. studios may want to know, is in Palm Springs for a week; George Jessel's mama—the same one he publicized on stage and radio—is coming here to live with him; Phil Lennen and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nelson have joined Bob Orr, of Lennen & Mitchell Company here for special business conferences; Nina Foch says it isn't true that she goes to New York to marry Actor John Dall; Joe E. Brown goes to New York this fall to star in a Broadway show for George Abbott. That's all today.

Nixon Is Named To Edit Quarterly Of Journalism

Dr. Raymond B. Nixon, director of the Emory University division of journalism, has been elected editor-in-chief of the Journalism Quarterly, national publication devoted to research in the field of journalism, it was learned here yesterday.

Nixon

Dr. Nixon was elected to the editorship at the recent convention of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism, which, with the American Association of Teachers of Journalism, sponsors the quarterly. If he accepts, he will take over the position along with his Emory duties this summer, when the magazine will be moved from the University of Minnesota to the Emory campus in Atlanta.

The Emory educator was nominated for the position by a committee headed by Dr. Frank Luther Mott, Pulitzer prize-winning dean of the University of Missouri School of Journalism. Dr. Mott himself was first editor of the quarterly, from 1930 to 1934, designing the magazine's format and helping to bring it to its present prestige.

Editor since 1934 has been Dr. Ralph D. Casey, director of the University of Minnesota School of Journalism, who asked to be relieved of the editorship and joined in recommending Dr. Nixon as his successor.

Widely known as a biographer of Henry W. Grady, Dr. Nixon served last year as chairmman of the research committee of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism. He has contributed numerous articles and reviews to the Journalism Quarterly, specializing in history and public opinion.

Bankers Plan Forum On GI Bill of Rights

The GI Bill of Rights will be the topic of discussion at the monthly forum of the Atlanta Chapter of the American Institute of Banking Feb. 20. John M. Slaton Jr., regional manager of the U. S. Veterans' Administration, will discuss the bill from the veterans' viewpoint. Robert B. Troutman will give the legal side and Herman Jones Jr., vice president of the First National Bank of Atlanta, will go into the details as a banker sees it.

Robert B. Kimsey, assistant secretary of the Trust Company of Georgia and chairman of the Atlanta chapter's forum and seminar committee, advises that this is another effort on the part of the American Institute of Banking, which is the educational section of the American Bankers' Association, to bring to Atlanta bankers timely discussions of subjects which are of great importance to banks as well as to the country as a whole.

YMCA Meeting Hears Dr. Ellenwood, of N. Y.

In an address before 300 at a YMCA meeting last night, Dr. James Lee Ellenwood, New York YMCA leader, declared that the "genius of our movement is that we have established tremendous contact with our young people."

The meeting, held at the Ansley hotel, was under the auspices of the Atlanta YMCA Association and the state YMCA council. Dr. Ellenwood, secretary of the New York YMCA council, was introduced by Abit Nix, president of the Georgia YMCA council.

Fanning Miles, president of the Hi-Y of North Fulton High school, Atlanta, explained that movement to the group.

Whatever Meat Is Available Can Be Made Appetizing

By SALLY SAVER

This week's mail brought a letter that really isn't funny but I couldn't help laughing as I read: "I do not know how the meat situation is in the south, but up here (a New York suburb) it is deplorable. Unless one is at the market before 9:30 in the morning it is just impossible to find anything but oxtails, liver, pig's feet and other of the most undesirable parts of the animal."

I do know how she feels, and so do you, and it isn't funny. But like the author of that letter who goes on to tell me what she has learned to do with these "meat sundries" we can with good humor, a fair-sized pinch of imagination and some recipes, make the best of a bad meat situation that most likely will be with us until the end of the war. The meat "sundries" such as heart, liver, kidneys, brains, sweetbreads, and the flank, breast, shank, and neck cuts are "undesirable" only because we are not familiar with means of preparing them. They are highly nutritious; some of them furnish more vitamins and minerals than the best roasts, chops and steaks. And they can be turned into attractive and appetizing dishes. Let's try some new dishes. Clip and save these recipes for your "wartime meals" file.

BARBECUED LIVER

¼-pound sliced beef or pork liver
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons bacon drippings,

Wipe slices of liver with paper towel or damp cloth. Season with salt and dip in flour. (Save remaining flour to thicken sauce.) Cook liver in bacon fat until browned, pour over it the barbecued sauce and simmer 20 minutes.

BARBECUE SAUCE
1 small onion
Flour (left over)
1 tablespoon brown sugar (or molasses)
1 cup cooked tomatoes
2 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon chili powder (optional.)
1 teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce

Peel and slice onion thinly. Add flour mixed with sugar. Combine other ingredients and add to onion and flour mixture. Simmer 15 minutes.

LAMB LOAF
2 pounds ground lamb
1 cup milk
1 egg
1 cup cracker or dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 green pepper, minced
1½ teaspoons salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
Mushrooms, (optional)

Combine all ingredients thoroughly. Pack half in a greased loaf pan, and press mushroom caps in two even rows over the surface. Place remainder of meat mixture over, and press mushroom caps in two even rows over top. Place in 350 degree oven and bake 1 hour. Hard-cooked egg slices may be used instead of the mushrooms. And ½-cup catsup may be poured over the loaf before baking, if desired. If you like the flavor of curry powder, 1 teaspoonful may be added to this recipe for variety.

MEAT LOAF SPECIAL

Have 1 pound liver cut in ¼-inch slices. Scald liver, drain, roll in seasoned flour and fry quickly in hot fat, allowing only about 2 minutes for cooking each side. Then run cooked liver through food chopper, using fine knife. Mix the meat with 2 tablespoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 3 pimentoes cut in thin strips, the grated rind of ½ lemon, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon worcestershire, and a dash of cayenne. Mix. Then add 2 cups cold mashed potatoes, 1 cup tomato puree or strained canned tomatoes, a lightly beaten egg. Mix thoroughly and bake in a greased loaf pan in moderate oven, 45 minutes to 1 hour.

BRAISED BEEF HEART

Heart requires long slow cooking. Wash heart, and trim off the veins. Cut in slices or leave whole, and brown in a small amount of fat or drippings. When brown, add a small amount of water, salt and pepper to taste, and simmer gently until tender, about 2½ hours. Thicken gravy and serve over meat. The heart may be stuffed with bread dressing, if desired.

STUFFED BOLOGNA SLICES
8 large slices Bologna
2 cups mashed seasoned potatoes
Melted butter or margarine

Place about ½-cup mashed potatoes in center of 4 slices bologna. Place second slice on top. Fold edge of top slice over bottom and fasten with toothpicks. Brush with melted butter and place in shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate over 350 degrees, 15 minutes. Serve hot.

The WORRY CLINIC

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

(Millions of Americans are shy and worried because of facial blemishes or pimples. Lola is a victim of a nose complex, but her trouble is the exception to the rule.)

CASE E-289: Lola G., aged 29, is married and has two youngsters. "I am so moody and blue," she said. "My children are not getting the proper attention from me and I know I am being unfair to my husband.

"But I can't go out in public, for I am so self-conscious about my nose.

"As you see, Dr. Crane, it has a hump in the middle. The more I pay attention to it, the more embarrassed I become.

"I refuse to go outdoors unless it is after dark, for I don't want people to see my ugly nose.

"This trouble has been growing worse. Could a plastic surgeon straighten my nose, do you think?"

DIAGNOSIS

Yes, a plastic surgeon could straighten her nose. But why make such a fuss about a nose, if it hasn't interfered with a girl's winning a good husband and establishing a happy home?

There is hardly anybody who is perfect in every physical feature. Some girls have snub noses, while others have long noses. Some have freckles or big ears, sallow skin or a skinny neck.

You must become philosophical about life. Accept many of your defects as simply your burden to bear, but make the best of it and compensate for a fault by developing two attractive psychological traits.

HOW TO BE HAPPY

If your eyes are crossed, then take advantage of all that modern surgery can offer, and get them straightened.

But if your nose is not so deformed that you haven't been able to win dates and a husband, then why make a mountain of a molehill?

Quit thinking about self and turn your attention outward upon life. You can't remain unhappy very long if you are active. Moodiness disappears with action! A good dose of Epsom salts would check a would-be suicide's dangerous train of thought, and I'm not being facetious.

Join the Compliment Club, which demands that you turn your thoughts outward upon people and become a social detective, ferreting out their virtues so you can then phrase appropriate compliments thereon.

VERY MODEST

Lola is a very modest, almost prudish woman. So she will not admit that she thinks something may be wrong with her.

She converts her worry into a substitute anxiety about her nose.

You will notice that her trouble arose after her marriage, yet her nose hasn't changed since she was a teen-age girl.

But the worry over facial blemishes in most patients is not a neurosis, especialy among your people of high school age.

Send for my bulletin, "The Psychology and Medicine of the Face," enclosing a 3-cent stamped envelope plus a dime.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Constitution, inclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs, when you send for one of his psychological charts.)

Woman's Club Names Nominating Committee

At the recent meeting of the Atlanta Woman's Club the following members elected to serve on the nominating committee: Mesdames Turner E. Smith, Tom R. Brooke, Willis F. Westmoreland, B. M. Boykin and Olin S. Cofer. The fiscal year of the club is from May to May.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Mr., Mrs. Hard To Observe Silver Wedding Anniversary

This is a very momentous day in the lives of Elizabeth and Straiton Hard, for this evening they will celebrate their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary with a beautiful dinner party at the Biltmore hotel to which their immediate family and a group of close friends have been invited. The Hards were married on Feb. 18, 1920, so that their anniversary actually falls on Sunday, but they are observing it a few days in advance. Virginia (Mrs. J. H.) Kelley, who was one of Elizabeth's bridesmaids, and her husband will come up from Monticello to the party and spend the weekend with the Hards.

Sally hears that the dinner table will be a vision of loveliness. Covered with a sheer silver metal cloth, it will be adorned with silver bowls filled with white snapdragons and gladioli, and antique silver candelabra will hold tall, white tapers. The place cards will bear the Hard crest and the dates, 1920-1945, with the names, Elizabeth Dunson and Straiton Hard. Elizabeth will wear an off-white satin gown, beaded in pearls and crystals, and a spray of white orchids.

Straiton has given Elizabeth, as an anniversary present, a handsome antique silver service, bearing the family coat-of-arms.

The Hards were married at the old Ponce de Leon Baptist church. Dr. Henry Arthur Porter, of Charlottesville, Va., a neighbor of Elizabeth's parents, the Walker Dunsons, performed the ceremony. Mrs. W. H. Nelms was organist, and Mrs. Vivian Stanley was soloist. Evelyn (Mrs. Augustus Burch) Bland, of Louisville, Ky., was her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Virginia Smith, now Mrs. J. W. Kelley, who was a classmate of Elizabeth's at Lucy Cobb Institute, and Virginia McCormick (Mrs. David) Fulton, of Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Kirk Smith Jr., of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. William Bedell, sisters of the bride, were matrons of honor, and W. B. Willingham III was the ring bearer. Elizabeth's brother-in-law, William Bedell, gave her in marriage.

Marion (Mrs. William) Bedell and Edith (Mrs. W. B.) Willingham Jr. will be present to join in the celebration, but unfortunately Gladys (Mrs. Kirk) Smith and Evelyn (Mrs. Burch) Bland will be unable to get here. Mrs. Walker Dunson, Elizabeth's mother, and Betty, her adorable nine-year-old daughter, will also be among the guests. The one thing that will keep the celebration from being as festive as it might is that Straiton Jr., who is a lieutenant in the Navy, is way out in the Pacific.

PLASTIC SLIPPERS COMING TO TOWN

It was to be expected that something new and exciting would be shown in the way of shoes in the Junior League show, "Fashionata," which Rich's is presenting at the city auditorium on Feb. 28, but it was beyond the realm of dreams that the shoes to be featured would be UNRATIONED as well as unmatched in beauty!

The Junior League members are as excited about the unrationed side of the shoe story as they are about the shoes themselves, and the shoes are just "out of this world." They are plastic slippers, combined with marching grosgrain ribbon, in ruby red, emerald green, sapphire blue, amber, tan, and jet black . . . which give them the name of Jeweltones. The plastic slipper consists of a sole which follows the outline of the foot, and a graceful, 3-inch heel of the same translucent material. The slipper is held on with circle toe bands of matching grosgrain ribbon, which slips through eyelets under the instep, and ties around the ankles. The toes of the slippers are slightly squared, and they are backless.

Soles and heels are prickled, so that the shiny plastic won't slip or skid on pavements. Jeweltone slippers got their start in Holly wood where they were a sensation.

In addition to this startling innovation in footwear, there will be numerous other handsome shoes shown in "Fashionata."

SCHOLARSHIP IS OBJECTIVE

A hundred-and-fifty-dollar scholarship is the prime objective of the benefit fashion show and tea to be held at Davison's by the Washington Seminary and North Fulton Tallulah Circles on Saturday, Feb. 24. And if the efforts of the members are any indication, the success of the party is already assured, for the girls have left no stone unturned to make it perfect.

The last attraction added to their program is music by Petty Officer Graham Jackson, whose services are contributed through the courtesy of the U. S. Navy.

Beverly Dobbs is chairman of the special scholarship fund, and her co-chairmen are Douglas Saffarrans, Margene Branch, Ruth Elder and Anne Hirshberg. Alice Mitchell is president of the Seminary Circle, and Nell Gray heads the North Fulton Circle.

Miss Belen Maria Bernabe, daughter Dr. and Mrs. Rafael Bernabe, of San Juan, Puerto Rico, became the bride of Dr. Herbert Louis Treusch, of this city at a ceremony which took place at Sacred Heart church, recently, with Father Francis Perry officiating.

The church was decorated with tall baskets of white gladioli.

Col. Erwin M. Treusch, A. U. S. of New York, only brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The maid of honor was Miss Yolanda Bernabe, only sister of the bride. She wore a blue satin gown and a Juliette cap with matching veil. She carried an arm bouquet of American beauty roses. The brides maids were Misses Alice May Battle and Rafaela Venettis, of Detroit, Mich., cousins of the bride. They wore identical gowns of yellow satin, with matching Juliette caps and veils, and carried arm bouquets of talisman roses.

The bride entered with her father, Dr. Rafael Bernabe, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore an imported model of white duchesse satin, made with a long train. Her illusion veil was fastened to a coronet of orange blossoms, and she wore a white Spanish lace mantilla. She carried a shower bouquet of white orchids. Her only ornament was a diamond pendant, an heirloom in the groom's family. She wore a gold dollar, for luck, in her shoe, which had been used by her two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Erwin M. Treusch and Mrs. Maxwell L. Shatzen.

After the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Bernabe entertained the bridal party and guests at a breakfast, at the Biltmore hotel. Miss Frances Bell, of Montgomery, Ala., college roommate of the bride, kept the bride's book.

A Low-Point Quickie

"Short order" dishes are what I call those dinner quickies that take very little time from cupboard to table. These "short order" franks and kraut will warm up a hungry family on a wintry day . . . and how good they taste. The thrifty housewife will appreciate the help this low-point meat gives her red-point budget, too.

Frankfurters and Sauerkraut

Drop Certified Frankfurters into boiling water and simmer 5 min. or until hot through. Reheat canned sauerkraut or if raw kraut is used, drain it, cover with boiling water and cook covered, ½ hour. Drain and season to taste with salt and pepper. Dill or celery seed may be added, if desired. Serve "franks" on top of the kraut. One quart of sauerkraut serves 6.

Clip Directions Here

CHILDREN'S SPECIAL

Please the children often by serving tasty, low-point Certified Frankfurters. Easy-to-eat meats like frankfurters, hamburgers, meat loaf and meat patties make eating easier for the young fry, and help assure them of getting their allowance of important body-building proteins. Fortunately, these meats are easy on the red point budget so they can be used often.

Frankfurters and sauerkraut call for a crispy food like French fried potatoes. Add a molded fruit salad and a chocolate pudding, both of which can be made the day before, and you have a quickie menu that's as welcome as an elaborate meal.

A Quick Warmer-Upper

On these cold days, there is always the problem of how to warm up the children who come in from play "half-frozen." The quickest way I know is to give them a cup of hot B-V. Just dissolve ½ tsp. of Wilson's B-V in a teacup of hot water and you have a nutritious as well as a delicious warmer-upper. Yes, B-V contains a goodly amount of good blood-building iron as well as important B vitamins. So, why not sit down with the children and have a cup yourself?

Pointers on Meat Points

1. Get acquainted with the variety meats such as liver, heart, kidney, tongue and sweetbreads. They're easy on the point budget and they contain the same high quality proteins and B vitamins as the cuts which have a high point value.
2. When purchasing large cuts have a few chops or steaks removed. Freeze these so that they may be used between leftovers to give variety to your menus. It's a point-saving trick, too.
3. Cooking at low temperature saves both meat and points because there is less shrinkage of meat.
4. Be sure to save your waste fats to turn in for more red points.

Sincerely,
George Rector

Stone Mountain GI 'Looks After' Boys

A U. S. GENERAL HOSPITAL, England—(Delayed)—(AP)—No ordinary mess sergeant is Maner R. Medlock, 32, of Stone Mountain, Ga. Besides directing the patients' mess hall at this general hospital, he is master of ceremonies for a hill-billy band composed entirely of mess personnel, which entertains in the patients' wards at night.

"I try to look after my boys," says the Georgia staff sergeant. "They seem to like my southern drawl and cooking."

Before entering the Army in 1942 Medlock was employed by the Atlanta Gas Company, and previously operated his own cafe in Atlanta. His wife, Florence, and his mother, Mrs. Lenora Medlock, live at Stone Mountain.

Shortage of Coal 'Over the Hump'

S. R. Ducker, area distribution manager of the Solid Fuels Administration for War has announced that the SFAW community committee advises that the office for the placement of emergency coal orders in the municipal auditorium now being supervised by the Office of Civilian Defense, will be closed, effective today.

The original establishment of this emergency office for coal orders was to assist many coal consumers to obtain coal who had less than a five days' supply on hand, and who were unable to place their orders for coal with a retail coal merchant due to an overwhelming demand and the inability to effect deliveries as a result of a manpower and equipment shortage.

Ducker said that a total of 105 cars of coal in addition to regular shipments have been directed to retail coal merchants in DeKalb and Fulton counties which will materially relieve the situation and now permit coal consumers to place orders directly with their regular retail coal merchants, affording reasonably prompt deliveries.

Nurses' Group To Meet

A meeting of the Fifth District Nurses' Association will be held at 4:30 p. m. today at the Henry Grady hotel, with Dr. Hugh Wood as guest speaker.

Wheaton College Choir Gives 3 Church Concerts Sunday

The Wheaton College Chapel Choir, of Wheaton, Ill., will present concerts of sacred music in three Atlanta churches Sunday. They will appear at the Kirkwood Baptist church at 11 a. m.; Gordon Street Baptist, 3:30 p. m.; and the Baptist Tabernacle, 7:30 p. m.

Included in the group will be a male quartet and a women's trio. Both will sing selected numbers. Prof. H. William Norden, instructor in voice at Wheaton Conservatory of Music and the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago, is the director of the choir.

Atlanta alumni of the college and the three congregations will sponsor the programs, which will feature familiar sacred choral numbers and reading of scripture in choric verse. Numbered among the alumni are Mrs. W. C. Gilmer, of Gordon Street Baptist; Mrs. Richard Robertson, of Decatur; the Rev. and Mrs. Paul S. James, of the Baptist Tabernacle, and E. A. Cording, also of the Tabernacle.

DR. HAGER TO SPEAK

Dr. Harry J. Hager, pastor of the Bethany Reformed church, of Chicago, will begin a series of sermons at the Westminster Presbyterian church Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. He will speak twice daily through Friday.

Honorary vice president of the Chicago Bible society for the past 10 years, Dr. Hager is a well-known radio speaker and conductor of several evangelistic campaigns and Bible conferences yearly, in addition to his duties as minister to a congregation of 3,000, the largest of his denomination.

The West Merritts Avenue Baptist church will hold a candlelighting service in honor of members in the armed forces at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, the Rev. W. H. Dameron, pastor, has announced. Mrs. Julia Roberts, chairman of the blue star mothers, will direct the program.

LENT COMMUNION

The young people of the Cathedral of St. Philip will participate in weekly corporate communion services at 8 a. m. each Wednesday during Lent, with Canon Colin R. Campbell as celebrant. Immediately following the service, various women's chapters of the church will serve breakfast, Dean Raimundo de Ovies will conduct the meditation at the 10:30 service of Holy Communion Wednesday.

Georgia Avenue Baptist church members will elect three deacons for three-year terms at the morning service Sunday, according to the Rev. William C. Sistar, pastor. Those whose terms will expire at that time are: R. A. Stallings, J. A. Thomas and H. M. Mann. The unexpired term of Robert M. Sollar, U. S. Army, will also be filled.

Mrs. R. E. Finch was recently installed as president of the WMU at the Center Hill Baptist church by the Rev. L. D. Kimberly, pastor. Other officers included Mrs. F. S. Evans, Mrs. J. O. Fuller, Mrs. J. E. Holland, vice presidents; Mrs. A. Norton, secretary, and Mrs. W. M. Griff, treasurer.

Mrs. Nobel Y. Bell will succeed Mrs. Ryland Knight as teacher of the Aliae class of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church Sunday. Wife of a member of the Baptist Home Mission Board, Mrs. Bell was recently elected by the 200 members of the class, after Dr. Knight accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist church in Pulaski, Va.

Club Meetings of the Week: The TEL class of the Baptist Tabernacle will meet at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in the church.

DEPORT CHAPLIN, ASKS SENATE BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(UP)—Sen. William Langer, Republican, North Dakota, today introduced a bill to deport Movie Actor Charlie Chaplin "to protect the morals and the girls of the country."

The measure would direct the department of justice to investigate the British-born actor's activities and determine whether there is grounds for deportation. Chaplain is not a citizen, although he has been in the United States more than 30 years.

Langer is the father of four daughters. He said he is intent on protecting them and the nation's womanhood.

Georgians' Milk Subsidies Are Revised

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Constitution Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—War Food Administration officials today gave the amount of the new milk subsidy going to producers in the Georgia area under the action taken by the agency yesterday.

For the period from January through March a subsidy of 90 cents a hundred pounds will be allowed. From April through June the subsidy will be 55 cents, from July to September 65 cents and from October to December 90 cents, officials stated.

In addition a subsidy of ten cents per pound was voted on butter fat in the Georgia area for the period through September, while a subsidy of 16 cents a pound was allowed for the period from October through December.

Officials said the new 1945 subsidies are less than the present basis rates in the state up to June, but that subsidies later in the year will return to present levels.

Milk Director Grateful For Subsidy Continuance

George Stewart, acting director of Georgia's milk control board, yesterday expressed appreciation that the federal milk subsidy is to be continued. However, he said that Georgia dairymen cannot stand a reduction in the rate of subsidy payments.

"I will ask the legislative committee to seek continuation of the present rate of payments," Stewart said. The house and senate is naming a milk committee. Such a committee last year was successful in doubling the rate of subsidy, and placing it on an 11-month basis.

'Jekyll & Hyde' in Atlanta To Entertain Veterans

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, in a subdued sort of way, arrived here yesterday to give Atlanta war veterans a few laughs. In the true person of Bob Hanscom, USO-Salvation Army Clubman from Waycross, the "quick-change artist" will make impersonation appearances at Lawson General hospital and Fort McPherson today and tomorrow.

Hanscom, who has switched from an old maid to Abe Lincoln professionally, runs through his routine in several shows each day for wounded soldiers. He changes his facial props while the audience looks on.

MILK BOTTLE BRAIN DOES NAVIGATION

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—A new flying instrument, which figures out longitude and latitude mile by mile as a plane flies and shows them on the pilot's instrument board, was announced today by the Bendix Aviation Corporation.

The Superfortresses have been using these instruments on their flights to Japan.

The new robot brain is about the size of a quart milk bottle.

The bottle brain picks up two facts as the plane flies. One is the pressure of the wind, a force which depends on and changes with the plane's speed.

A magnetized triangle picks up the plane's direction by the angle at which the triangle cuts through the earth's invisible lines of magnetic force.

When a plane starts its latitude and longitude are set in the milk bottle brain, which then draws the lines of flight continuously.

Sinatra's papers also have not been returned to his board from Governor's Island where he was sent after an examination at the Newark induction center, it was said.

Power Company To Help Remove Abandoned Rails

Co-operation of the Georgia Power Company in removing tracks of abandoned trolley car lines from city streets has been promised the city by Warren R. Pollard, transportation manager for the company.

Pollard's proffered aid in removing the hazardous rails came as the public works committee approved a resolution designed to remove rails and resurface a 3½-mile stretch traversed by the Highland avenue trolleys. Under the plan buses and trackless trolleys would be substituted for street cars.

The power company will remove all car tracks which should be removed, and Atlanta and Fulton county will share the expense of resurfacing the stretch, which extends on Houston street from Butler to Hilliard, out Hilliard to Highland and out Highland to Virginia avenue.

Councilman John A. White, author of the proposal along with other members of the fifth and sixth ward delegations in council, said he believes the substitution can be made this year, and that traffic congestion will be relieved markedly. Federal agencies must approve substitution of rubber wheeled equipment for street cars before the plan can materialize.

During a discussion of the track removal matter, Mayor Hartsfield suggested that the company should remove all abandoned rails, and Pollard promised all possible cooperation, but cited labor shortages. He suggested that the city take up with the company any immediate problems, and said every co-operation possible will be extended.

The public works committee also instructed Clarke Donaldson, city construction chief, to revamp old plans for construction of a new Boulevard underpass beneath the Georgia railroad at Decatur street so as to provide sidewalks for the new structure. It is estimated that execution of the revamped plans will cost approximately $150,000. A large delegation of civic leaders and citizens urged the revision.

The Highland avenue project will go to council Monday for approval by that body.

Auto Parts Firm Faces Charge In Wage-Hour Case

The Crane Auto Parts Company, 268 Edgewood avenue, today will face charges of contempt of court before Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood for alleged violations of a restraining order issued April 28, 1941, enjoining it from further violations of the wage and hour law.

A complaint filed by George A. Downing, regional attorney for the U. S. Department of Labor, alleges that the company has failed to comply with any of the provisions of the injunction order, and asks that the court punish the company and Ambers C. Crane, Louis J. Crane and H. P. Sullivan, partners in the company, for contempt.

Hugh Howell and Robert R. Tisdale, attorneys for the defendants, have demanded a bill of particulars, alleging that the complaint is vague and indefinite, and that Louis J. Crane and Sullivan were not parties to the original injunction order, having joined the company in January, 1943. They further allege that the company is not subject to the wage and hour law.

Judge Underwood will open the hearing today by considering a motion filed by the wage and hour division to exclude Tisdale from participation in the case as attorney for the defendants. Tisdale, the motion states, was an employe of the Department o. Labor in the Atlanta regional office at the time the restraining order was issued and had access to confidential information regarding the suit.

STOCK SALES

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Rails led the stock market on a swift last-hour recovery push today, after considerable profit cashing irregularity in the forenoon, and the over-all average hit another high mark for the past seven years.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .7 of a point at 61.4, a peak since Sept. 4, 1937. It was one of the broadest markets since 1940, individual issues numbering 1,006 appearing. Of these, 599 were up, 200 down and 207 unchanged.

Mild irregularity developed in today's bond market as the demand for rails grew more selective and buying in other groups was less aggressive. Investment rated issues steered an independently steady course.

Rotary Electric Steel jumped 2 points in the curb. Lesser advances were American Superpower preferred, Baldwin Locomotive warrants, Mesabi Iron and Red Bank Oil. Turnover here was about 620,000 shares, versus 680,000 yesterday.

For Your Information

Facts Concerning Utility (Grade C) Beef

When supplies of Grades AA and A of Beef are inadequate our markets offer, when available, Utility (Grade C) quality. While Utility Beef is just as nutritious as the higher grades it lacks the full tenderness and delicate flavor. It cannot be served as a rare roast or broiled as a thick, juicy steak, but must be cooked slowly and thoroughly . . . prepared as pot roasts, Swiss steaks, stews and other highly seasoned dishes.

Suggested Recipe

Prepared With Utility Beef

Served With

Panned Squash and Onions
